Thread: [\[Suggestion\] Additional thread benefits for upgraded users](#)

M?xim - April 7, 2017, 11:29 pm

I've noticed that HF values the benefits that come along with upgrading, and that is by good reasons. So, I were looking trough all benefits you get from upgrading (L33T/3P1C/UB3R) and started thinking about the image limit for threads. When making thread, it is easy to max out on images, such as for when making a tutorial thread or sales thread, take this for example: click. The current max limit is 15 images, and that applies to everyone, but what about making it slightly higher for upgraded users as they should be more responsible for what they are posting and values it more than a non-upgraded; what I am trying to say is that, it won't be abused.

Normal: 13images

L33T:15 images

3P1C: +3 images (added to the main usergroup)

UB3R: 18 images

Yay or Nay?

If it is a common problem maybe it would be nice, I personally never heard anyone complain about not enough image limit tho tbh I think its because you can combine the image in one right?

I like the idea of upgraded members having more thread features tho. I think omni was planning epic / omnicoin to have unique thread tags or something. I didnt follow up on it but I remember liking it. Does anyone know what happened to that?

Anyways GL on this suggestion, im all for suggestions that help the HF community :)

I can't really see any points against this suggestion. I like it.

Example of a thread I would love this on.

Yeah the examples are many. And it is not a big difference for how it is now, just that it will benefit upgraded users more than non-upgraded.

Yeah I like this. I've maxed out on videos a lot of time in guides when I wanted to post multiple videos under spoilers for each topic.

To add to this, we don't necessary need to max out too often, but it is just that it would make sense if you get this as a benefit by upgrading.

Not even staff members have more image privileges than us, you'd think Omni'll just raise it like that?

I'm not saying it's a bad idea but it would probably come with some restrictions size-wise...

Why would size matter?

I can post a single image 20000px x 15000px and fuck up the layout.

Welp, staffs doesn't really need this more than any other user does. Never seen a staff make a long thread with lots of images, or posting new tutorials or sales thread while being staff.

He wouldn't raise it "just like that". I am merely suggesting it for him to think about it.

Yay or Nay?

That should though..

Nice suggestion, a definite Yay :-)

This would require a plugin which I am not interested in creating.
