

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Skill's Retro Gaming Tournament #1 - Donkey Kong

Angelus - April 8, 2017, 8:18 am

Retro Gaming Tournament

A trip down the 8-bit memory lane

Game: Donkey kong for the NES

Brief History On the Console:

The best-selling gaming console of its time, the NES helped revitalize the US video game industry following the video game crash of 1983. With the NES, Nintendo introduced a now-standard business model of licensing third-party developers, authorizing them to produce and distribute titles for Nintendo's platform. Many of Nintendo's now sought-after and recognized franchises spawned from this console, such as including Nintendo's own Super Mario Bros., The Legend of Zelda and Metroid, Capcom's Mega Man franchise, Konami's Castlevania franchise, Square's Final Fantasy, and Enix's Dragon Quest franchises

The Tournament

Players will use an emulator and ROM copy of the classic game, Donkey kong, competing for the highest score.

You (the player) will be live-streaming your gameplay in the eyes of a moderator, your opponent (determined by bracket) on a seperate livestream, different moderator. You will move up the ranks of the bracket, and your journey ending when you see the fated "Game Over" screen.

If you want to participate in this tournament it is vital that you say so on this thread, so we may add you to the bracket, if you do not say so, we will not add you

If you are busy on the day of the tournament, let me know ASAP via. PM so we can reschedule you to fit your needs

Rules

No Cheating: The moderator you are assigned to will have you go over a small checklist to make sure you are not cheating, or using any kind of hack, failure to comply or evidence of cheating will get you automatically disqualified

No harassing your opponent or moderator before/after the match: this will be a clean fight, and any evidence of you harassing the other player will get you disqualified

Have fun

Prizes

Dependent on the amount of entries (10,20,etc.) prizes below will be offered to the top two, four, and so on.

For Skill Members: A custom graphic thread design and signature from Wild Yak, and Custom Color/role on our Discord chat

Non-Skill Members: You are invited to join the group and you also receive a custom graphic thread design and signature from Wild Yak, as well as Custom Color/role on our Discord chat

When will this begin and end?

The Tournament begins on April 8th, questions may be asked in this thread, and if you want to enter, you MUST post that you want to join, or you will NOT be added to the bracket.

Computer Craft - April 9, 2017, 8:46 am

Looking forward to this tournament.

Can't wait to see how it turns out.