Vouch for this guy

Helped me obtain my dream first name @ on Twitter for free.
This is the least I could do for him, which is giving him this vouch.
Offered to pay several times, declined it everytime, as his service is in fact free.

Amazing guy, replies instantly, free service.

I just sent you a message to your gmail.

Cool service you're offering, and that's a great way to get known around here... But please don't ask for rep. That's the worst thing you could possibly do. It will come with time if you keep giving back to the community, you can count on that.

mrhappycoder90 - April 8, 2017, 8:23 pm

Cheers man, re-edited the ad removing request for rep! :)

Scammed By mrhappycoder90 hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=3494511 $100. I was told $100 up front and $100 after I got a working password. Would not give me password or proof (see screen shoot) screencast.com/t/07L9jvmQ9RL

I'm a single mom (i know a dumb one now) of a small child and I told him that was a lot of money for me.

I would like to state here that the terms were actually $100 upfront $100 once "I" have the password. Which is the major point here. She even agreed to this prior starting the job hence why she actually paid $100 upfront. In future re-read terms top to bottom over and over so you are 100% sure you know what you are getting involved in. I stated that i cannot supply screenshots of being in the accounts inbox due to revealing too much information.

Due to this she labelled me a scammer. It's a shame. I would have given her a refund if she had not posted all over the internet that I'm a scammer instead of resolving the issue via email.

Now due to this I'm reserved on completing email hacks. So please only social media.
