Dr1ps - April 10, 2017, 8:49 am

His profile

<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=2682887>

This is a response to his deal dispute which he locked and I couldn't reply to

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5591804>

Saw Fade's thread asking for a web developer, so I went ahead and PM'd him.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5322255>

Afterwards, we took it over to Skype where the deal was made, which said $400 for a website based on a list I was given and that I wouldn't touch the design at all.

Fade offered me a partnership for less than $400, but I refused and therefore agreed only for $400.

Fade - I was in constant contact with him, pointing out the details to have desired results.

Thiizic - My payment was coming from him.

Robot - I didn't even know Robot existed since he was never involved with the project.

When the list was coming to an end, Robot PM'd me on Discord offering me another deal.

I would continue developing the website for free, and in return I would get 10% of his shares. At this very point the website looks like this, has everything that was requested at the time:

<http://img04.imgland.net/vkiAD--.png>

I agreed.

From this point on, I'm developing the website for free until it's launched, and Robot took advantage of that by constantly asking for stupid changes, therefore delaying the project a big time. Instead of fixing bugs and pentesting, I spent my time changing the layout 100 times because it didn't look exactly like he wanted it when everyone else said it was perfect.

We were to launch months ago, but because of his stupidity the website is still not considered launched, which cost me I don't even know how much since I had to give up on other projects in order to work on this for free all these months.

At a later point, to enrich the offer he told me he would kick Fade and Thiizic from the team, so that it would be our project. According to him, Fade wasn't involved with the project at all, and he would just buyout Thiizic.

I wasn't going to mention this, but he decided to take my work and spoil my name so he deserves it.

After some months, I told him the period of grace is over. The website has been tested many times, people gave us their feedback and everyone likes it, so it's about time we launch. He refused and then started threatening me like a 10 year old such as he will find another dev for it, or that he will take me to court (not even joking about this one, I'd show a SS if he hadn't kicked me from the Discord channel). So after about 2 hours of arguing and me pointing out the facts, he came to reasoning (or sort of).

Without saying anything, when nobody was prepared and the other 2 team members were offline, he goes and publishes a thread here on HF saying that we have officially launched.

After a second argument, he decides to junk it.

So at this point everything looks good and I'm asking to schedule a launch so we can do it right this time. Again, he refuses to launch because "the website is not complete" and gives me a list of stuff he wants done. I was obviously not going to spend any more working hours since he was delaying the launch again and we had to launch. I told him I would complete his whole list, but for $80. He says he doesn't have that much and offers me $40 instead. I told him I'm doing it for $80 because $80 is shit itself, or we're launching. After saying that he revoked my access from everywhere and kicked me from the Discord channels.

So he's left with my work and I'm here making this dispute.

I wouldn't have bothered making it, but the guy keeps threatening me over PM's and spreads around that he paid me $400 for some shitty work.

Dr1ps - April 10, 2017, 8:56 am

Needless to say, the guy put nothing into this project.

The server is paid by his friend, the domain is paid by Fade, he only complained about everything and delayed the project because the font wasn't big enough.

If he disagrees with my thread then he can add me back to the channel so I can take a screenshot of the whole thing and let you guys be the judges.

Mr. Robot - April 10, 2017, 9:00 am

This is a load of crap and you know it.

You were offered a percentage of site income to continue it after the site was launched. That offer was for when all the modules were put in and as a motivation for you after 6 months of no progress.

Also that image <http://img04.imgland.net/vkiAD--.png>

That was how the site looked around 4-5 months ago which is a free/paid/cheap theme and we paid for a website to be developed. The only thing the game had at the point of that screenshot was how it looks - none of the games were done, no bets could be made, no deposits could be made, no stats, no contact, no admin, chat was buggy, leaderboard wouldn't load and overall the site couldn't hold more than 3 people looking at it without crashing.

The Game types listed in the screenshot are purely there for cosmetics - This is one of the very first screenshots we sent you on how we would like it done.

Sorry but this is nothing like that and didn't work - 4 months of progress for this.
[img]http://img04.imgland.net/vkiAD--.png[/img]

The site barely functions now as it is and that's after 10 months worth of development - as you can see by this thread

06-30-2016 01:35 am //

So how dare you try and open a deal dispute on me when you have 2 options.

Take the money we paid you and leave it so we can get someone else to finish it - including some basics like a gambling site should have and what we asked for. Sounds

Profiles/Open on click of username in chat, could be an iframe of just like bitarena.co/user/new001 (if that makes it easier or if you know a better way) live recent games list somewhere on the main page, could fill some space at the bottom under lobbies. Sort of needs to be 'there' as it advertises activity

Deposit history to avoid complaints about long deposit times.

Or refund the funds and fuck off -

Tree of Life - April 10, 2017, 9:07 am

"The site barely functions now as it is" we've already had threads looking for testers who tested the website thoroughly and works as expected.

Also, you fail to understand that the $400 I received was for the list I was given back then. Everything after that is because you promised a share.

And I'm not sure why you keep bringing up the refund, the money isn't even yours. I'm more than willing to take this with Thiizic and Fade and keep your backstabbing ass out of it.

Furthermore, what's your point with the screenshot? You gave me that when you wanted me to picture the layout while making it. You kept asking for changes even after I made it like in the picture, which is what you asked for.

Last but not least, it wouldn't have been 4 months if you didn't continuously make me add and remove the same things because hell knows.

EDIT: You're lying about how the game wasn't functioning with the free template you gave me (since I wasn't supposed to do the design). I still have that version.

He's lucky as a contractor we didn't get him to sign a fucking document on this.

10 months worth of work at bitarena.co

Until 6 months 0 work had been done except uploading a free fucking theme and changing a few things to how it should look (not actually making anything function)

<http://img04.imgland.net/vkiAD--.png>

Tells us to launch when it's not complete so I tell him we can get someone else in to finish the job and he can 'take a break' and once it's up if he wants to continue work on it he can and still take my original offer of a percentage of site income.

He chooses to try charge another $80 to make changes that should have been on in the first month with everything else.

The $400 was given originally along with this screenshot

<https://i.ytimg.com/vi/6lueKHv938/maxresdefault.jpg>

Not only was that the base of this original fucking site but it was the first image I came across when you asked how it should function and look.

If you are only wanting to do the backend - that's fine take the money we paid and get out of the entire project.

This is completely unacceptable for 10 months worth of work - Don't take on jobs you can't complete.

Will wait for Dale, Fade and Thiizic to comment.

Almost anyone who's anyone on this forum that I have spoken to knows exactly the amount of fucking struggles I have with you to get anything done. If you aren't good at big projects, don't take them on.

They also know the only reason we didn't get rid of you earlier was we knew you were learning as you went.

Me offering you 10% in THE FUTURE WHEN THE SITE IS UP TO STANDARD - THE STANDARD REPRESENTED BY NOT JUST THE IMAGE BUT BY STANDARD OF HAVING A FUNCTIONAL SITE.

It's not considered 10 months of work when we go back and fourth, that's just you acting idiotic which had an impact on the whole team.

I already told you this and I'm telling you again, you can never consider a website complete, there will always be features added and bugs revealed.

They weren't in my list. I said I'd charge you $80 because you kept delaying the launch for no reason, yet you wanted to negotiate even that.

You're lying, again.

This <https://i.ytimg.com/vi/6lueKHv938/maxresdefault.jpg> was given to me just for a reference after we made the deal for the share, after the list was fulfilled. I was not supposed to even bother with the design for that $400.

If you consider yourself ethical to the slightest, add me back to the channel so I can add screenshots of our chat proving every point of my thread.

EDIT: It was done when the list was done, that's how far Thiizic's $400 goes.

Mr. Robot - April 10, 2017, 9:28 am

Either way dude, you have 3 choices.

Refund the $400 plus 10 months of server costs @ $80 a month - we take down the entire site and build from scratch.

Continue the project without holding it hostage with the requirements and leave the project continuing with your original offer of 10% even if you don't continue development. Sounds

Profiles/Open on click of username in chat, could be an iframe of just like bitarena.co/user/new001 (if that makes it easier or if you know a better way) live recent games list somewhere on the main page, could fill some space at the bottom under lobbies. Sort of needs to be 'there' as it advertises activity

Deposit history to avoid complaints about long deposit times.

Keep the money, leave the site with us and go separate ways.

Lol you are more than welcome to do so however I own the gambling license for the domain bitarena.co so you will need to make some new logos and and get a new domain -

Good luck with that. Also I haven't put money in? You're the fucking dev, we had an investor Thiizic at the beginning for $400, 10 months ago. The server costs + advertising + gambling license + art for the site isn't anything right? Because of course Mr. Dr1ps the developer thinks it's his site.

Oh yeah just for anyone reading this - The gambling license cost me 27k and will cost around 40k annually.

That's almost coming up too - still no site.

Also on this bit here as I didn't bother to read it all.

Server costs? You didn't pay them, why are you bringing them up?

Advertising? Where and when? The website was dead for those 2-3 days you decided to launch it yourself.

A license which we've never seen anything about.

Art for the site, are you referring to the landing page? Pretty sure Fade got it for us.

FYI it is ALSO my site not only because you gave me a percent of your share, but also because I made the whole thing from scratch. Beyond the point Thiizic's $400 bought.

You were useless to this project, you put nothing to it other than delaying it day by day.

And of course making me re-do the design numerous times because you personally didn't like it, although everyone in the showcase section was more than happy with it.

1. No, you were paid for a site - which still isn't complete.

I was paid to finish a list. By the time I finished that list, you got what you paid for and the website is considered complete. Why is it so hard to understand it?

2. The site has been hacked more than 10 times in total since you told me to "launch" then afterwards you replied saying "Oh I didn't mean right now"

Are you hallucinating? The website was not a single time hacked. There were points during its testing that people were able to exploit a thing or two, which were resolved ASAP. That "I didn't mean right now" was when we were fighting over delaying the launch, and then you went ahead and launched it without saying anything.

3. That last bit about it being "our project" ??? Nice one dude - fucking nice one. Why would I want to partner with you on anything.

Because the website will need to be constantly and actively developed? Plus I wasn't the one who brought that up, you were.

Also I still don't get why you keep whining about that $400 when you weren't the one who paid it.

2073436 - April 10, 2017, 9:45 am

I like this.

Dr1ps has the better talking and all that stuff but the intentions aren't correct or true.

On the other side we have Mr. Robot which does make valid points but he's just stressing over because of the deal dispute on his name and not presenting that how it has to be.

Dr1ps is a better talker than a worker FROM what I have seen.

I have never been one of his customers nor have I ever talked before with Dr1ps.

All I KNOW for 100% sure is that Dr1ps, in this whole situation, has cared more about the commercial side than customer loyalty and satisfaction.

That's not surprising though, don't forget this is on the HF marketplace.

I'd suggest Mr. Robot keeps a little more calm.

Try to keep everything into one post instead of reposting the same points over and over again. That way everyone sees both perspectives perfectly fine without too much spam.

Thanks. Best of luck.

Yes 2 users had 99999 credits after breaking the game. Users were trying to withdraw which I had disabled.

Maybe you should fix the site before posting about it on "hack forums" as I really do hope someone breaks it more to prove my point.

Also the site was done when it was completed to standard. Until then you are being paid the $400 upfront. The reason you wanted it launched so soon was to get more money which meant putting out an incomplete site full of vulnerabilities.

It's taking too long for these kind of "issues".

2+ people together from HF partnering on a gambling project which has taken 10 months and it is still not working including the front page as if you just stole Simaas' thread design.

Seriously.

Percentages are being thrown around as if they even mean anything at this stage.

I think you can both agree on the fact that things are messy at this very moment.

All are greedy and it's not going well. Move on. That's how online business goes. I have been there multiple times.

Every time I thought about money too much without having many any, it failed.

Every time I got too hyped, it failed.

You will all probably hate me for what I just said but seriously, wake up.

If you expect to make tens of thousands with this working on it by walking on this current path, best of luck, but I am telling you that it won't go through that way.

Why would I bother pentesting the site when it's not complete or ready to be launched? That's a waste of my time and money. It would need to be tested again straight after you finish. Then we do pentesting and bug fixes.

Irrelevant. You thinking there's nothing there to help him does not mean there really isn't anything.

If he says that there are relevant screenshots there on the channel and you refuse to add him back you're clearly trying to hide something imo.

He is right about not having to make everything perfect BEFORE launching it.

This is the kind of business where you work on it, launch and keep innovating with new features so players have a reason to keep coming.
You can pretty much compare this with MC servers.

So many servers trying to have everything on mass scale before releasing it. They release and no traffic.
If you dream too much about the money, it won't happen.

Ok honestly at this point why are both of you going public over something such as this, you both are tarnishing your rep and looking foolish. Sort this on a personal level as the matter is a personal problem, you're gaining so much attention on this, people taking sides etc. It's stupid. This is not a dispute it's a personal disagreement over work and that's what you get when you don't form contacts. You should really close this thread or delete it and take it to PM or Skype.

Bluffer - April 10, 2017, 10:57 am

I must say the 15-20 mins I just spent reading this thread were worth it!

Honestly I don't see why this deal dispute is even open, OP should accept Robot's offer and move on. After all Robot is offering to take quite the loss in order to move forward with the project, starting from scratch.

I also noticed that both of you have contradicted yourselves many times throughout this thread. It would be helpful if when those other people are online, Robot can allow Drips back into the server so he can get screenshots to properly defend himself. It's hard to verify what both of you are saying from an outside perspective.

Exhibit A:

"You were offered a share after completion of the site to continue development as it had taken you 6+ months at that point and you could use the motivation !TO GET IT DONE! "

I've already answered this. The site was done when the list was done.

"I launched it then because Dr1ps told me to, within 10 minutes 2 users had 99999 credits and the site crashed.

Hence why I wasn't ready to launch."

You are lying about facts.

I did tell you we should launch, I never said we should launch at that very moment like you did. 2 users never had 99999 credits. Some users had the test credits left from the testing, that were supposed to be removed when we were going to launch.

I think you can both agree on the fact that things are messy at this very moment.

All are greedy and it's not going well. Move on. That's how online business goes. I have been there multiple times.

Every time I thought about money too much without having many any, it failed.

Every time I got too hyped, it failed.

You will all probably hate me for what I just said but seriously, wake up.

If you expect to make tens of thousands with this working on it by walking on this current path, best of luck, but I am telling you that it won't go through that way.

I may sound like an arrogant piece of shit but I am very confident in what I just said.

I disagree with that, I think Robot wants to get this done and needs to get through this road block. What is right is if this project were to continue with everybody one has to wonder what else will you fight about especially when the site actually has people visiting it every day.

If someone can't pay you cash upfront for your work then honestly don't do the work. You should have been paid cash for your work until the launch and if they wanted to keep you on as a dev then they could have paid you a percentage after the launch.

Unfortunately too many people have an idea but don't have the skills or money to take such an idea into fruition, so often they use others to try and get the project going.

Next time just work for cash bro, percentages are always dodgy and a way for someone to spice up a deal they may flop from the start.

The share was once the site was complete and launched - I guess now I see why you didn't do any work and just said "launch launch" all the time. So you could "officially have some say in the site" rather than just being the DEV.

The site wasn't complete from a developer standpoint or from a client standpoint either.

The team can move however you want - go make a new Discord and invite them continue work on the site - if you don't have a copy of it to upload just PM me and I will send you a copy of it then remove it from my own server.

You want me to "compensate" ???? I've been asking that this entire fucking time.

Also yes technically if I wanted to I could keep this as is and finish it off with someone else working on it - not only that but you couldn't get it back without paying the $400. (even then I might say you can keep $100 for the "10 months" it took you)

But see that's because i'm a nice guy, y'know I just don't like getting fucked around but immature little cunts like yourself. Grow up and do the work that's required or don't take on jobs.

As stated previously I offered you to keep the original 10% of all site income - Even if you didn't complete the fucking site, and I could get someone else in to finish it so you keep the original $400, you don't have to finish it and you STILL GET TO KEEP 10% OF SITE INCOME!

HOW IS THAT NOT A FUCKING DEAL OF THE CENTURY -

Why did I offer that? Because I didn't want to be an asshole and remove you from the project, I wanted you to have that 10% and I wanted the fucking site done without having to wait ANOTHER FUCKING 12 MONTHS!

I was on the site waiting to play with someone and I don't recall the site ever crashing since I was on it.

Yeah I think I remember you from the website's chat.

The website was and is ready to launch as all the bugs you guys found were fixed, then tested again and again.

But of course Robot would rather delay the launch because it was missing sounds.

I refused to do any EXTRA work until the site was launched. I was working on a regular basis to get you the desired results, and after the launch I'd continue adding whatever unnoticeable changes you asked for.

Proof is in the channel which you kicked me out of.

"I tell you the site will break and people will end up taking money out of our account if we launch now."

Site never broke and they couldn't have taken money out of any account because withdrawals were disabled.

Proof is in the logs.

"I knew the site would crash because it had been doing it all day and wasn't ready yet you continued to say launch. "

It crashed only one single time, and that was because you kicked me out and started playing with the console. Then you added me back in and it never crashed once.

Proof is in the logs.

Do you object with any of the 3 replies?

Yup read my previous posts. Site crashed and withdrawals were disabled because I wasn't ready to launch yet you told me to. If I had launched how you wanted me to, I would have enabled the withdraws and we would have been screwed.

So the logical response to me saying we should launch was to go ahead and launch without preparing for it or anything.

And website never crashed beside that one time you messed with the console.

Damn all my post was deleted.

Yes the site crashed and yes I launched after you said it was ready.

Even though none of the site was actually completed you still claimed it was ready to go live/public and make money - it wasn't clearly.

As far as I am concerned, if Thiizic and Fade say you can use the sites source for your own project, then go ahead. Otherwise take it up with them, I could care less - it wont be done with you on it for another few years.

mvmt - April 10, 2017, 12:31 pm

This is the only post I will make on this thread.

Dr1ps has been a great worker since the beginning. His experience may be lacking here and there, hence all the issues we've had with the site, but he's done his best to do what I've asked of him. The duration of the project was far more than I expected, we did ask for a lot of changes but I feel that Dr1ps could have been around more and actively working on the project because 11 months for this is just insane. I was the main director in the beginning and got the site to a somewhat functional state, where Robot stepped in and began helping more with other aspects. From there, Robot and I worked together with Dr1ps to get the site how we wanted it. It wasn't until the last 1-2 months that there were issues.

Since then, I have stepped back and let Robot and Dr1ps handle their issues which is what I am going to do now. I don't know if its true or not that Robot wanted to kick me out, so I won't comment on that. The issue itself is a hard one to handle, and I'll let them come to a conclusion. Either way, I own my share of the site and will leave it at that.

The only proof I have of me being apparently kicked out is from Dale Carnegie, who gave Robot some money for a small share in the site so therefore he is irrelevant. If he makes any posts on here, just ignore him as he owns <10% of the site.

Real developers track their billable hours properly and also provide services rendered to the client's satisfaction or they set out terms and conditions beforehand in order to deal with all the tweaks and future maintenance.

You could have launched when the list was done as it had what you wanted at the point. The fact that you wanted it to be "perfect" in order to launch is entirely your fault.

Anyway, I guess this really is pointless after all. I'll just leave this here, and you should use only what you have paid for (well not you but you get the point).

Well in that case you'd be scamming me off my files, since you never paid for them yet managed to get away with them.

You should hire another dev to make you a new one like you said you'd be doing.

Man I don't know you but this right here, this is some stupid shit coming out of your mouth. You're the dev, you don't get to determine when your client launches their project. If a dev told me "it's finished just launch it" I'd be firing them immediately and moving on. Your role is to code according to the requests of the client. In exchange, when the client is satisfied with the work, they pay you. Sometimes a deal is worked out for half before, half after, or any other percentage. Your posts make it sound like you've never done business with anyone over the age of 16. Grow up.

It was not complete however we are going to leave it at that and move on.

The only reason I stuck to this thread is because I wanted to know if he had some sort of payment he wanted or whatever y'know but as we said - even if he only spend a week on it which is what it looks like, he can keep the $400 and we can move on without him. It's not worth the hassle and that way he feels like he has been paid something for his time - even though it has been a huge waste of ours.

xatt - April 10, 2017, 1:13 pm

The coder I hired for my site took 7 months to create what should've took a couple weeks max. I got all of my money back and I was totally not satisfied. It helps if your client has a clear image of what they want to see along with the features, and you go ahead and complete everything they ask for. If you do it right, you should be getting paid, if they keep changing it and it's never ending requests getting added to the list, you need to pause and be like hey, this will be more pay for me. If they don't agree, you should get paid for what you did (as long as you met their criteria) and wish them luck. If they agree, well, you keep working.

No you personally didn't give me a list because I didn't even know you when I started working on the project. Fade gave me a list when we were coming to an agreement for the project.

Yeah I didn't say beards aren't manly, but you've been repeating yourself for 15 pages so not surprised you didn't get it.

I wasn't hired for Fade's personal website, I was hired for a website you 2 had partnered for. Therefore when I agreed I'd do what was on that list for $400, then the website is done.
