Thread: Kissing a friends Mother? Feel free to judge

Sace - April 13, 2017, 8:49 am

This is quite a hilarious story, but at the same time it can be seen as quite a sad one.

My friends had their parents over to visit them at uni, they went out for a meal and invited us over for drinks after at their flat.

So after a while chatting to them all, i noticed there was something a little bit usual about one of the mothers, she was a bit loose and I felt like she was purposely trying to make her daughter feel uncomfortable by flirting with me.

I thought it was just a bit of light hearted flirting after I had perhaps charmed the mother (I wasn't trying to charm her lol). Then after some time she was holding my hands and rubbing them sensually, while staring at what felt like right into my soul at the time. Her eyes were saying to me "Lets fuck right now here on the spot". My friends and the daughter tried to break up the weird sexual tension by saying "lets go get more beer" clearly signalling me to not go any further/deeper into whatever the fuck was going on.

it was starting to get really late, and we decided to leave, as everyone left she told me to come close for a hug and I just started kissing, tongue action too!
it was like a sneaky goodbye kiss.

Anyway no one seen it and I left, my friends think its hilarious, and part of me thinks its hilarious too, but at the same time imagine if that was your own mum.. having to deal with those kind of antics on a daily basis perhaps, makes me feel bad for my friend :/
She is also married too! bit messed up haha

I would of tried to fuck her. If she was dtf then who cares about her daughter. Especially if she is already married.

I mean. I would do it just to fuck with them.

when she get mad, I'll just be like it's a French thing.

Keep that shit up OP.
