Thread: Kendrick Lamar- Damn

Yin Yang - April 14, 2017, 8:21 am

Surprised that a thread hasn't been made over this, but people are going nuts over his album that dropped last night. I didn't get the chance to hear it yet, but I heard it's fire.
Thoughts on it? Is Kendrick the best rapper alive?

I only like 2 songs, DNA. and HUMBLE. he is a good rapper but still not the greatest.

To pimp a butterfly was one of the worst albums I've ever heard, so I'm nervous to listen to this.

I like the start of DNA and Humble of course. The rest of the songs in my op are just songs you listen along but not crazy good songs.

Same thing that happened with kid cudi, turned on what made him famous to make a more artistic album.

HUMBLE has got to be best on album

JackDaniels9767 - April 14, 2017, 1:44 pm

I didn't like this album except DNA and Humble and im not on a bandwagon this is my opinion.

He is not the greatest rapper to me.

This line represents the "death" of him, which is also referenced in the intro of the album on the song Blood. The album was released on April 14th which is Good Friday, the day Jesus died. He was later resurrected which is Easter. ALSO, he makes a ton of references to him being the "god", he even named one of the songs "God". Kendrick will resurrect on Easter because he is the Jesus of the rap game.

ALSOOOOO his producer tweeted "Wait till yall hear the final version" with a picture of Neo from the Matrix holding the red and blue pill. The original pictures kendrick posted had one album with a red text saying "Damn" and the other with blue text saying "Damn".

GUESS WE'LL SEE.

Poll should've been: favourite track?

Mine's Love.

To be honest, I'm not the hugest fan of Kendrick. This album did not particularly change my mind, but I'll give credits to the amazing cinematography for the Humble music video.
