Thread: NetSeal Alternatives

Kr?nus - April 15, 2017, 7:37 am

Anyone know some?

I'm running out of licenses and can't buy any more.

Anakin™ - April 15, 2017, 7:44 am

There's been a similar thread here, maybe you can check it out.

pm'd you one alternative that alot of crypters will use

M?xim - April 15, 2017, 7:50 am

We who sell has our own license system using php. We can create licenses, delete, manage and all that and you can't access our web-based keylogger without an active license, are you not able to do something similiar? Not sure what product you sell.

How did you make it work with HexPay? URL Redirect?

Huh? We load HexPay with licenses and they get the license key via Email upon purchase. Then they need to register at our site and enter the license.

You said it's more complicated. From my perspective it isn't.

Is there a problem with that?

Read the 2nd post on this thread.
And the 6th.Alright, let's end this debate, i could give 2 fucks what's more complicated for each of us.

Still looking for more alternatives!

What's the estimated release date? Also, would it be integrated with Rocketr's autobuy system?

We don't currently have an estimated release date. We're working on it very quickly, however.

Well we need an alternative ASAP and I'm sure orgy is the man to do it.

Just sucks they don't allow malware to be sold on rocketr!

Friendly advice: Make a thread in marketplace discussions, get the word out as soon as possible. That is to show that you are working on it and going big, to rule out competitions.

If you need graphics for it, a simple banner or whatever, I can hook you up.
