Thread: Hide Time Spent Online

Green Dope - April 15, 2017, 11:05 pm

You know how someone can appear offline? Well, I was just thinking. If you refresh their profile page, then you can easily see their "Time Spent Online" will go up/change. Pretty much meaning, that they are online.

So my suggestion is that we have the option to hide our time spent online from our profiles.

What would the point be?

Ub3rs can see who's online, even if they're appearing offline...

Seems like a useless feature imho.

It would only benefit staff.

I think it's Admin only feature.

As already pointed out, we users, cannot go fake-offline. So what would the point be with this suggestion?

This is dumb. Even if they have invisible mode on you can still see their last visit. If it's like 1 minute ago from the current time, you can assume they're online.

Not really necessary feature imho.
