We should buy HF a ad spot on Worldstar lel.... Only like 2k i think.....

rsx - April 16, 2017, 1:17 am

Yeah lemme just pull $2k out of my ass

$2k is what I have to pay in restitution right now

KushForPrez - April 16, 2017, 1:17 am

This would just bring in alot of trash users tbh that would be like
"I wanna hack money" "How can i get people to listen too my mixtape"

Vxncent - April 16, 2017, 1:17 am

Probably the most pointless thing i've ever heard.

1. user base is already big
2. worldstar wouldn't be the best audience to bring to here, except the range of 10 year old white children that watch to feel cool, they'd fit in

Mafty Navue Erin - April 16, 2017, 1:21 am

Hackforums is already famous enough to be watched by the feds and have features on the news.

Yeah coz we dont have these already..

I would rather see hackforums not being listed on google or other search engines as this is what brings idiots here. They google things like hack facebook and they come across hundreds of pointless posts and threads .. guess where.. here.

If Hackforums wasn't on search engines, we wouldn't have nearly as large of a community we do today. The number one reason to KEEP Hackforums on search engines is to bring more members and traffic for the marketplace. The marketplace is pretty much the blood source and heart of the forums.

I understand that. But it shouldn't list all the threads or at least implement option for user to decide if they want their thread listed or not.

Doesnt really matter what it's well known for.. What matters means it has a fuck load of american traffic and is way higher ranked then HF is...

Picking a different category for ad's is sometimes best.. Why advertise to a base that probably already know's about you?

Why would HF want to be on such a shit site? It literally ruins videos when you hear some cretin in the background shouting WORLDSTAR

Yeah all anime fans are that age lolllol

I mean you gotta be a right loser if you are an adult and watch cartoons.

This is not a very good idea.
