First time hitting 1k views on my Soundcloud. It's pretty damn hype, even though it's a small achievement to most.

You can peep it here:

I started out a month ago with like 40 followers and I'm already at 160. I've been networking heavily and I'm starting to perform. Really looking forward to my journey from here.

Yes I know these numbers are small, but I'm proud of the amount of progress I've made in such a short amount of time. Not even in numerical value, either. Just looking at how far i've come skill wise has been pretty well, but I've been working from sun up to sun down, staying up till like 4 am revising and writing.

Pretty good song, gratz man!

Have you thought uploading your music to youtube, it could get more viral there?

I like what you did so far. Have you ever thought about sending it to a label? Kontor.TV would be a good starting point.

Anyway, keep making music, I guess one day you'll get more recognition
