Thread: Netcense - .NET licensing system

Orgy - April 21, 2017, 12:32 pm

With NETseal closing its doors, users around here need a new licensing system. I'll keep this short:

Follow us on Twitter,
Like us on Facebook,
and do whatever it is people do on Google Plus.

Some features: Web panel for managing licenses and applications

Automatic software updates

Hardware locked licenses

Server-side variables

Authentication callbacks for enhanced security

Extensive online and offline documentation

File integrity verification

Multiple program support

News system

Automatic detailed error reports

More will be added later. Keep checking back.

And of course, it'll be integrated smoothly into Rocketr to make selling licenses for your applications even easier.

Regarding malware:

If you want to use this for your malware, let me be abundantly clear: look elsewhere. We will be taking a very strict stance against malware and will not allow it on our platform.

We're working as quickly as we can on this but we currently don't have an ETA. Developers, if you have any requests, post here and we'll see what we can do about adding them.

MODERN - April 21, 2017, 12:33 pm

I'd love to help test if that is a possibility.

This will be neat. I knew you were going to do this after the netseal announcement

gringo - April 21, 2017, 12:40 pm

Yes, I'm so excited you're involved in this Orgy, this is going to be great. One feature I really liked about netseal was the API and being able to create licenses without my interaction, also coinpayments support would be nice.

tuNNelZ - April 21, 2017, 12:42 pm

I could criticize this to help improve the details looks, and improvement.

1. At this time we don't have an ETA. We're working on it as quickly we can, and will inform everyone as soon as we have a timeframe.

2. We are not gonna allow any type of malware on our platform. No exceptions. This will most likely include keyloggers and RATs as they're almost exclusively used in an illegal manner. Unfortunately we won't be able to manually check every single product, but we'll investigate any that's brought to our attention. I'll also be running some crons to check for specific phrases and keywords to automatically flag products for me to investigate.

Well, I think is up to every single user on how is using a crypter, malicious or not.

Unless you plan on selling outside HF only to "legit" application, I don't think you will have too many sales.

Either way is your decision and I respect it.

Good luck.

It's also up to the developer to not market it towards malware and add features that are for malware. If you have a "file encryption" product, it shouldn't need to be able to bypass antiviruses or pop up fake message boxes. These are features for malware.

There's a fine line between legit obfuscators and illegitimate crypters in a lot of cases. However, I think when crypters start including features like AV bypass, anti-debugging/vm, persistence, start up, etc... I think it becomes fairly obvious the crypter is tailored towards malicious usage/users.

If this was given free to twBooter, BlackShades, AND xpozure customers, then there'd be no one to sell to.

Financially, what is the plan?

What kind of plans will exist?

I assume, for financial reasons, you are not going to be offering 'slot' purchasing.

Not yet completely sure on pricing, so don't want to say anything till it's set in stone. It'll be very affordable, though.

We should have a working beta version at the end of this month most likely.

Sickness - May 18, 2017, 2:13 pm

That's good. Waiting a lot for this to see a good license system on the market.

Can you say between fingers when this will be released?

Tokyo - May 18, 2017, 11:33 pm

Good job on jumping to this market Orgy. If Rocketr was a success to me, I'm sure Netcence will be too.

citsejaM - May 22, 2017, 6:13 am

Anything yet? When can we expect a beta?

flAmingw0rm - June 2, 2017, 5:45 pm

No dates yet unfortunately. I apologize as I've meant to make more progress sooner but I've had other responsibilities lately that have kept me from making said progress. All I can say is soon

Will this be a free to use licensing system with a few license that can be given out before buying extra spots just like NETseal had?

Rock™ - July 1, 2017, 8:20 pm
