Thread: Stellar is the new gold coin to invest in

Mr. Robot - April 22, 2017, 6:03 pm

(OLD THREAD< DON'T INVEST NOW UNLESS YOU CHOOSE TOO)

So don't take my word for it but I believe Stellar at $0.003472 is the next coin you will make bank off.

Unsure if it's going to be a pump to 10c per coin over the next 30 days but it's definitely one i'm hopping on.

<https://coinmarketcap.com/currencies/stellar/>

$100 will buy you 28,801 coins. At 10cents per coin that's a decent profit. If it has more potential it will reach $1 but that will take a couple months.

IF you want me to add in coins up here I think have potential just lmk

EDIT: Current price: $0.012353

If you bought in at $100 when I made this thread, your profit so far is $350+

UPDATE 13/05/208

80951.9954667 coins from $1,000 when I made this thread would now be worth $29806.4437788

Clockism - April 22, 2017, 6:07 pm

I was looking at this coin a few weeks ago, its a fork of Ripple if I remember correctly.

V For Vendetta - April 22, 2017, 6:09 pm

Lmao tbt to when Stellar gave away free coins by linking your fb account. The coin is so 2014 like omg

SIM-82498 - April 22, 2017, 6:09 pm

I remember when they gave away tons of coins for free initially. Of course, they weren't called Lumens before but I made like $50 off a few accounts lol.

I legit linked it to all my fb friends and made bank

Industry - April 22, 2017, 6:13 pm

I would never invest in to a coin that they gave away for free to users years back. Real money has always been and will remain more valuable than Lumens

P.s. what was the BTC/Dollar value per coin for Stellar when they gave them away? Does anyone remember...

Okay, I found a transaction on one of my justcoins account.
6250.00000000 = 0.11743750 BTC on 2014-12-25
1 BTC was $318.61 at the time, so I got $37.42.
I forgot how many accounts I made lol

Ravioli - April 22, 2017, 6:15 pm

I don't know how I feel about this coin yet, might consider investing but idk.

CheGuevara? - April 22, 2017, 6:19 pm

I wouldn't say it is and I will not take my chances with Stellar.
But I really hope that your (gut feeling? sorry if it's something else) is right and not wrong, would be very happy to see you and others make profit. The more the merrier!

Good luck to everyone who decides to take the Stellar road! ?

Bought, 17686.97500000 STR at 0.00000280.

There are 9,317,265,511 coins in circulation, surely its going to take a very long time to increase to anything above 5 cents?

It's not gonna go over $1 with a 9B circulation. Especially not judging by their past. Maybe it's a good flip, but it's not a good long term investment.

If Doge has potential, it will reach $1m per coin, but it will take 1 year.

You've literally given no justification for anything you've stated, there's no hard facts or real analysis. You literally just made a thread 'This is a good coin, buy it now'. I would be surprised if you bought in lower and you're attempting to pump and dump.

It's all speculation and inside knowledge. I specifically state as I always do "In my opinion" and it's always a risk as is any investment. Some can be informed and some can be taking a chance.

Fortunately i'm not a piece of shit who makes money off others losses. This isn't a pump and dump but a pump and either cash out your profit or hold in hopes of it getting higher in a longer period of time.

I feel like it's a good publicity stunt. Hypothetically, if I was to open a business, let's say a gambling website, I would want to garner as much attention as possible. After all, there's no such thing as bad publicity. That being said, even after businesses make stupid mistakes, they can reform if they choose to (people too).

It had a ton of publicity years ago when it gave away free coins. Then it went pretty much silent and they're making a return. I don't see the investment opportunity in this coin though, more of a pump and dump I'd assume.

Stellar is an all round try hard sort of coin - I don't see it ever reaching $10 but sitting in the dollar range some day.

Long term, hell yea chuck $100 or so on it now get 10k coins and wait it out.

Otherwise short term, it's kinda a thing with this coin - it'll spike quick, drop but still come out a bit higher than it was before the spike.

Agreed. I do really like the name of the coin and I mean the project has been trying its hardest for a while now to basically turn this thing into a social media coin honestly. The amount of giveaways.

SIM-888979 - May 5, 2017, 4:05 am

I remember them giving out 5,000 STELLARs for signing up with Facebook. I claimed at least 50,000 of those. Sold most of them though, just found 4,500 and sold it as well.

I wouldn't stick around long with this. But it's nice to find my Facebook login has turned into $60.

The amount of giveaways are stupid, no need for that supply will only smash the price into the ground if the supply keeps increasing unnaturally. All my money is on GNT.

No new news just highers the probability that this is a artificial rise. The drop is imminent, but you could make bank before that happens. The higher the price you buy in at the lower probability that it will rise enough to give a decent profit for such a risky investment.

I'm not disagreeing with you but you can put an emergency sell point in if the recent trades head down - and you can always set a high sell price that you are happy with.

I still think the coin has potential but I do believe right now it's being pumped. Either that or there is just a shit load of interest in alts lately (which is true)

Hulahoops - May 7, 2017, 5:24 pm

My god, I cannot believe how badly people have the need to jump on the hype train. STR just dropped 40% within two minutes then back up by 10%. People need to understand that the whale pumpers are simply giving the currency a big enough boost that it gains traction for the smaller masses to think "this is the ONE". All this does is simply get people to pull their longer term funds from solid alt coins like ETH, STRAT, BTC, etc., and put them into this short-term bonanza. This is not some kid's sports day event - everyone is not a winner.

I would simply recommend people research coins themselves and not take everything on face value.

Polo needs better DDoS protection and just more stable serving in general. This is far too common of an issue when millions of dollars are being passed around.

I was into stellar at about 25 cents a pop in late 2017, made myself 3x my initial. However cut down to 1.5x my initial. Still holding can see this hitting $1.

What are you thoughts on its climate today? Does it have a future going forward or is Stellar just going downhill from here?
