Noh Buhdy - April 26, 2017, 6:52 pm

hey Guys,

It have been almost 7 months since I have been on here and I was wondering, as of right now what is the most stable and best RAT at the moment?

Please give a brief description of why! Thanks ahead guys.

Cause this question has not been answered numerous times this week?

Use the search button, OR just LOOK.

I cant even be bothered to point out the benifets/downsides of each one anymore, you people cant be bothered to do your research, dont get in to the area. Simple as that.

It depends on what functionality you need and what operating systems you need to administrate. I have friends that prefer to use Orcus, however my top 2(paid and free) currently are Imminent Monitor 5(paid) and njRAT(free).

The best thing to do is just research throughout the forums as far as which is going to do what you need it to do.

Good luck!

lol Clearly Im beyond capable of doing research, Point is I wanted to hear personal opinions and why go through everyone elses when I can simply compile all opinions into one thread of my own, But thanks for your opinion. :)

I always recommend NetWire Workstation..

Please check it.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5572725&pid=54673494#pid54673494>

+ most stable, multiOS (linux,macOS,android,windows), no dependencies, small size, professional tool.

- less features (no fun features)

Thank you for your input I would recommend, <https://hackforums.net/search.php> you can see hundreds if not thousands of opinions with the just a few clicks of your mouse! Don't even need to bother making a thread :D...

What's good for you depends on your intents or needs.

I'd say if you are legitimately monitoring a workspace / office, go with imminent monitor or something else not here on hackforums. If your intent is more in the realm of crypto mining, performing tasks among a lot of computers you may be more interested in a botnet...

I digress; as far as best rats:

Free:

njRat is a given

Napoleon's Revenge Rat has become more popular recently, it's also is UD (nearly fud) without any crypter

Babylon is good but kind of old

Paid:

I second what flubdaddy said.

These questions are so repetitive within this section.

You're dumb. What he is stating is that there are thousands of these threads containing the exact information you seek. So learn to use search before you fill the forum with more shitty spam.

Just admit that you're lazy, excuses just make you look bad.

I would recommend SilentBytes as it's coded in Java which means it can be run on any OS that has the JVM installed.

Nanaz - April 27, 2017, 11:37 pm

Personally, I didn't like silentbytes all too much. Just a harsh gui and not as many features. Though Java IS a bonus..

My favourite paid is ImminentMonitor, its got a super smooth layout and you don't lose clients or have glitches, and theres lots of support.

Most of the free ones I've tried just have too many bugs, really gets frustrating.
Never heard of the Napoleon one tho, might check that out.
