Thread: hacking. as. a. career. ?

pirate_linkers - April 27, 2017, 7:29 am hi everyone.

i am just starting in hacking .. i know basic. c java etc

the problem is that i am not able to convince my self that as hacker i can make money means as a full time. can i choose this as career?

if any suggestions. that would be helpful... ?

If you need to ask that question I suggest you go do some research before asking questions like that because now for starters you have a huge bulls eye painted on you because im 99% sure your not using a vpn of any sorts plus your new.

Seriously though just keep learning to program use the forums daily check out new stuff & slowly build a legit trustworthy rep for yourself and as you work things out and start interacting with the HF community you may get someone help you in the right direction but the answer to your question. "Is hacking a good career for making money" Yes and no depending on what your doing and how stupid you are.

Before you do anything if you want money just look into E-Whoring.

Have fun new user ?

I think you should read the first chapter of my free e-book. You'll figure out real quick if you can make it a career or not.

One thing people always think of when the word "hacker" comes up is criminal. But in modern society the most hackers are actually working to prevent hacking. So the main way to get a job as a hacker is totally legal and it's called penetration tester and comes in many variations.

NOTE:

Either way it hacking isn't about doing "evil" or "illegal" stuff it is mainly about knowing ALL the rules of programming. So you basically can't go wrong with looking into it.

A good series that i think represent hacking in many ways is Mr.Robot

Some guy posted a list of good free books to read:

Well theres a legal way and a illegal way to make money as a hacker. Illegal comes with risk always unless you know what you are doing, I suggest you learn programming and learn as much as you can from this forum and it may help you decide what you want to do.

Making money? Yes, of course depending on your skills and your expectation, doing legal or illegal things you can win money both

If you want make money with hacking you might not become black hat (its illegal) try to work as defender or gray hat (defender and attacker) or pentester.

Oh yeah you also can use c and java programming language right? Try to work as freelancer (make program with java and c). Its can gain money as well

LOTS OF JOBS

1. Software Engineer

2. Penetration Testing
3. Security Consultant
4. Security Analyst
5. Intrusion Detection Expert
6. Forensics (commercial and federal)
7. Hardware Engineer
8. Security Researcher (find new vulnerabilities etc)
9. Malware Analyst

There are a ton of jobs as a "hacker", if you are looking for illegal jobs well that is a different story.
