Very nice drawings!

As for any artistic critique, in the first image, the girl in the front left corner with the hat or the girl beside her on the couch with blonde hair (more her since you did shade the first girl from the original concept) I felt could've used more shaded faces being that the light is behind them. If not this, then the red headed girl in the middle seemed unusual tan compared to the others.

For the second image I'd recommend toning down only slightly on the excess light coming from from the top left as not to have the background seem bland or uniformly yellow. Those are just my own opinions though which don't need to be taken to heart.

Overall though you did an excellent job, turning a 2D image onto a 3D background is no easy task, so keep up the good work I look forward to seeing more ;)

Happeh - June 11, 2017, 11:06 pm

Much prefer the urban ones, have a better juxtaposition which makes the images that little more interesting. Good shit for sure though.

Alice Dee - June 12, 2017, 12:15 am

They look very nice, but not much done to them. Very simplistic.

Yeah trying to make them as clean and almost realistic as possible without adding too much effects. Added a new one.
