If you're going to use USD you should probably use periods instead of commas as your separator

CleverUSB - April 28, 2017, 11:29 am

I will definitely take a look and post feedback later.

Tho, I don't know what to respond to people saying they can't remember what price they bought it, but I heard some websites to buy currencies from offer that. Regardless, you can check the history price of currencies in CoinMarketCap's 'snapshot' feature. I hope my reply helped.

Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) My pleasure, I think a thing I've noticed is some of the positioning on mobile seems odd, the logo for the site is below the navigation options and stuff. A big issue I have with the coins is that for my ETH I have, what I think is, the correct starting amount and purchase price BUT your site has a different current price to what my poliniex is saying. It says the current ETH price is $73.86 and that I have $8.27 in my poliniex balance but I actually have $7.87. Here is the link to my profile if you need it for reference <http://coinventory.net/user/James> and at the time I'm writing this I should be on a negative percentage of profit, not positive.

Looks like negative profit to me. Was probably just a glitch after a restart I did on MySQL.

Zayn. - April 29, 2017, 3:59 am

(Apr 28, 2017 10:44 PM)James! Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) The balance doesn't seem to update because as of when I'm writing this post in on $8 on my Poloniex, not $7.86

Poloniex's API could be the cause of this, as all the website does is get the price from them and that's it. All calculations are correct. ?

Well if you are up for suggestions i have a few.

Ability to close coin investment, it shows in profile but as done deal with profit or loss.

Ability to change default currency to BTC instead of fiat currency.

I wanted to buy his website and continue it, but be refused, so I decided to make my own.

We are each others' competitor is all I can say. I respect his website and I'm not trying to steal his userbase. My website will be advertised globally, not 'on HF so I can steal his userbase'. ?

I've got an idea for the site mate - make the profile page fully customizable such as adding a custom wallpaper behind the coins, adding a banner or even having a private message function on the site!

Introducing History!

You can now view the history price & profits of all your coins. History data is saved every 6 hours. A graph will be added soon for easier viewing. Enjoy.

Meanwhile, you can use a currency converter. Eg. searching on Google something like "50 USD to GBP" should work.

Thank you for the feedback. It means a lot, no matter how bad or good it is.

I am confident that the current UI looks fine to most of the users, but I want to make my website look good for everyone using it. Themes are something I'm considering adding or a custom designed page, but currently, I'm focusing on more important features to add, such as typing in a BTC amount when adding a coin.

Once all the important features have been added, custom themes will be added. I'll see what I can come up with. Meanwhile, if you want to feel MyAltCoins' theme, you can use our Table view.

Been thinking, a social network site such as Profit.ly needs to be created but for cryptos... If I didn't have another big venture going on right now, that's what I would do. Then again, I'm a website developer so it comes cheaper for me to make it than someone else having to hire people. Just a suggestion though if you're looking to expand this. Overall, nice, clean website you got going on.

Edit: Also, add a system to automatically add trades... Anyone can create a simple site to track peoples portfolios by inputting numbers. Do something different, make yourself stand out.

Thank you for the comprehensive reply.

While other websites like profit.ly have several people working for them, I am independently working on Coinventory. That does not mean that what I can add to the website is limited, but it limits how much time I have to add all the possible features. I'm working several hours daily on the website to make it the best version possible, but it will require time. I'll try to add whatever makes tracking investments easier for people, as that's what the purpose of the website is. Side features such as private messaging, profile commenting, etc. will be worked on when all the important features have been added.

Thanks again, for the feedback! ?

TONS OF NEW UPDATES!

You can now type in the BTC price per coin when adding/editing a coin. CoinMarketCap link to all coins has been added to user profiles in the top right of the coin. You can now also change your email in Security page.

Rest of the updates are in the full changelog below. ?

Code 13-05-2017:

- Profile Link added to Settings page
- CoinMarketCap link added to each coin in user profiles at top right corner
- You can now change your email in Security
- Fixed a decimal problem in total invested
- Profile images have been compressed (quality hasn't been affected)
- Added login button to landing/front page
- Added test profile to landing/front page
- Radium, Ark, Edgeless, Verge, BitBean, Counterparty, Clams, Viacoin and NautilusCoin logo added

When you click Finish Investment there is only real-time statistics. I think you should be able to add the price per coin when finishing investment, because the price can change a lot in the meantime.

NEW UPDATES!

You can now sell/buy any of your coins. Just click Edit and it will ask you what you want to do with the coin. I have also made it possible to write the price per coin when finishing an investment, as asked by some users. ?

Scroll down for the full changelog.

Code 17-05-2017:

- You can now click the coin's name to edit it in Table page
- Edit page has been modified into 3 buttons
- You can now sell/buy any coin in Edit page
- Sell/Buy are logged so you can view your trade history
- You can now type the price per coin when finishing an investment
- Sidebar percentages now calculate the profits instead of value
- New FAQ questions added to Support page
- DigitalNote, Expanse, BitShares, NAV Coin and BlackCoin logo added
- 51 new coin icons added

I gotta say, it hasn't been that long when I first started using this "Coinventory", but I gotta admit, I love it. Easy to keep track and add currencies, it is simple and plain as well. But I'm just a bit concerned, will you improve the design of the website?

Yes. After many users complaining about the design, I started working on a completely new and good-looking UI. The development started yesterday and will be completed in about 1-2 weeks. Thank you for the interest.

If you want to be a beta tester of the new design, please PM me, as I need daily feedback on it.

Coinventory is currently in BETA stage until all features on the to-do list are added. After it's out of BETA, I will invest a sum of money into it. I will gather a team and also a developer that can make an iPhone & Android app for Coinventory.

Keep in mind that my vision of the website is to make it as simple as possible, and I will always have that vision. The website will be as simple to use as possible all the time. Also, I'll never give up on the website. The development will continue until I die.

Stay tuned. Join my ride by sharing Coininventory with your friends and introducing them to the cryptocurrency world. ?

I honestly like coininventory more than any other of the options promoted here. For some reason I've found most of the other crypto trackers are around 10% off for me, even when I change the exchange to the correct one that I am using. Coininventory is the only one that has been accurate for me.

New Feature For Miners!

You can now add mined coins in your profile. Mined coins are marked as mined. Also, now you can hover on the coin balance to see how many coins it is.

Enjoy!

Code 30-05-2017:

- Added plus/minus to dropdown sidebar menu
- Private users are now shown as private instead of not found
- You can now add mined coins in Your Coins page
- 2GIVE, ArtByte, Circuits of Value, ReddCoin, Golem, Startcoin, Project Decorum, Humaniq, FoldingCoin, Ardor, Riecoin, XtraBYtes, NeptuneClassic, Bitzeny, Virtacoin, Digital Bullion Gold, Rise and Lisk logo added

Feature Request:

Either allow users to show both BTC/USD together. Or add a switch kind of thing somewhere to instantly switch BTC/USD value.

Altpocket does show both values at same time which I loved.

Edit: Maybe also add a field to show number of coins as well at each investment tile.

I'd suggest adding some actual exchanges api with high volume and not just the ones that host all the shit coins.

BITFINEX, GDAX, HUOBI, OKCOIN, BITFLYER, BITHUMB

The whole market basically follows Bitcoin Movements if you don't list the top Bitcoin exchanges only people using your website is going to be the plebs.

Very good overall.. Few pieces of advice.

I accidentally clicked Finish (after I put a coin) - and I reopened it I got:

'Notice: Undefined variable: check2 in /home/dh_qyc2hr/coinventory.net/public/openinvestment.php on line 22

Warning: Cannot modify header information - headers already sent by (output started at /home/dh_qyc2hr/coinventory.net/public/openinvestment.php:22) in /home/dh_qyc2hr/coinventory.net/public/openinvestment.php on line 29'

(2)

Change 'Finish' to 'Cashed Out', because people click Finish thinking it's a confirm thing to add the coin.

(3) Put an image up for IOTA please.

(4) When you add a coin/edit a coin, make it take you back to the all coins page and say at the top "Coin successfully added". Because that's what a lot of people expect imo.

Just my two cents, but I will continue using this. well done once again
