

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: RE: disabling of junking feature

DevNet - May 2, 2017, 1:18 am

Does this also mean I cannot junk threads in my own subforum?

Patrick Jane - May 2, 2017, 1:20 am

What do you mean your own subforum? You can't junk threads, period.

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - May 2, 2017, 1:21 am

(May 2, 2017 01:18 AM)DevNet Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Does this also mean I cannot junk threads in my own subforum?

You can't junk any threads. Being that is apart of your subforum, if you are the owner or leader, you will should be able to moderate your subforum.

Mr. Robot - May 2, 2017, 1:24 am

(May 2, 2017 01:20 AM)Patrick Jane Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What do you mean your own subforum? You can't junk threads, period.

He owns Genesis.

I'm not sure dude - Staff will have to answer that one.

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - May 2, 2017, 1:28 am

(May 2, 2017 01:24 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He owns Genesis.

I'm not sure dude - Staff will have to answer that one.

Junking threads and forum moderation are two separate things. Even though they both serve the same functions, it should still be allowed if you are a group owner within your subforum.

Patrick Jane - May 2, 2017, 1:31 am

(May 2, 2017 01:24 AM)Mr. Robot Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) He owns Genesis.

I'm not sure dude - Staff will have to answer that one.

Ah, got it. Well just go see if the junk button is still there, OP.

Eagle 95 - May 2, 2017, 2:40 am

I'm fairly certain this doesn't apply to group moderators. If the option is still there, you can still junk threads. ?

Omniscient - May 2, 2017, 8:48 am

The JUNK is still part of Moderation Options which should be usable for group owners.