"No Game No Life" is where it's at. Possibly the best anime I've watched. The story and main characters are all about gaming and are the best in every game they play. The first episode is kind slow and there is a bit of fan service but all and all it's a definite 9.8/10. It starts up as 2 people, a brother and sister(adopted) win at every game they play, then they get brought into a world where everything is settled by games. War, politics, everything. The whole story is just so well played out, not to mention it's super high quality and is very colorful. If you watch it I hope you enjoy it!

I really like the anime "One Piece". Its kind of like a sitcom to me where I can just lay down and watch a couple episodes when Im bored. I really like the bonding between all of the characters.
