Thread: What vehicles you drive/own.

kookur - May 6, 2017, 6:26 am

I'm 18 and i have what we call it "scooty" here from which I roam everywhere in my small city, I don't own a personal car neither I know how to drive one.

For anyone wondering what a scooty is: Scooty

Trevor Phillips - May 6, 2017, 6:28 am

This is my personal vehicle. I have committed lots of manslaughter with this baby.

-Pseudo- - May 6, 2017, 6:33 am

I have a car for practical needs of moving things and people around - this is the car I take to the gun range, to the flying field, to video shoots, etc...

2006 Honda Odyssey LX

Lapjeskat - May 6, 2017, 6:36 am

I'm 18 as well. I drive a 2003 Peugeot 206.

I own a Mazda 5 and a 2006 Class C Mercedes Benz.

God of Thunder - May 7, 2017, 11:32 am

I drive a yamaha bike. Considering the fact you drive a scooty, I guess you're from India. aren't you?
lol

CALIFORNIAN - May 7, 2017, 12:33 pm

I drive a Ford Focus at the moment. But currently a contractor on the road and I'm saving up while making good money. Thinking about buying a pickup truck soon like maybe a Ford F150, Dodge Ram, Toyota Tundra, or Chevy Silverado.

But nice. Let's see your Silverado, if it's stock or raised, you're definitely a cuck alabama sister fucker.

I guess you aren't very involved in the car community.
The term Ricer is not rightful for japanese or import cars only lol.
It's an SXT, it's not an RT, it's a slow american car that has blacked out rims and tint. Trying to make it look "cool".

If it was an RT it wouldn't be a ricer lol.

You drive a Subaru with neon plasti dipped rims...

I've owned many cars, many imports, and domestic. It wasn't supposed to be taken so literally.

Never had plastidipped wheels on any of my cars ever. I had two different sets of Works on that car eventually, then sold it.

Vossen are cheap cast wheels aimed at bros who buy cars they can't afford but still want wheels that look expensive.

Fair enough, just going off your thread pics.

I recommended Vossen rims to him cause they still look good on EU cars regardless of being cast wheels.
