

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: anonymous review's - an attempt to clean up marketplace

Rhino - May 8, 2017, 6:36 am

EDIT: guess there is no interest was a suggestion for an anonymous review section

M?xim - May 8, 2017, 6:50 am

Fuck-no.

One; there's already an open suggestion regarding a review section and Omniscient has shown no interest, so what would make him show interest in this?

Two; Anonymously? It would be spammed with salty kids who wants to bash sellers.

Three; There is nothing to clean up. You are making it sound like the marketplace is messy -- IT IS NOT.

This is probably the most terrible suggestion i have seen during my time on HF.

TheChi?f - May 8, 2017, 6:50 am

This is not 4chan.

Enough said.

Rhino - May 8, 2017, 6:52 am

(May 8, 2017 06:50 AM)M?xim Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Fuck-no.

One; there's already an open suggestion regarding a review section and Omniscient has shown no interest, so what would make him show interest in this?

Two; Anonymously? It would be spammed with salty kids who wants to bash sellers.

Three; There is nothing to clean up. You are making it sound like the marketplace is messy -- IT IS NOT.

This is probably the most terrible suggestion i have seen during my time on HF.

ahah

ill guess ill lock this as there is no interest

and the marketplace is not HQ, ebooks and shitty crackers are sold to expecting members everyday

M?xim - May 8, 2017, 6:53 am

(May 8, 2017 06:52 AM)Rhino Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) ahah

ill guess ill lock this as there is no interest

and the marketplace is not HQ, ebooks and shitty crackers are sold to expecting members everyday

Honestly, fuck you for saying that.

There is NO marketplace that is as structured and strict as HF's.

Tony Stark - May 8, 2017, 6:55 am

This would just add more drama to the marketplace.

If there's an issue with a product or service, you can leave rep or a review on the thread. You can also open a community alert if the situation warrants it.

It sounds like your just worried more about your own rep, than the actual welfare of other members.