Eclipse is Recruitment Only

Recruitment Thread

Eclipse is a group of members that work together to share knowledge within our sub-forum to learn from and use to help contribute to the community of Hack Forums in any and every way possible.

Requirements:

We are now allowing members to be accepted to our group, our specific requirements vary based on the member but here are our general guidelines:

Around 60+ posts per month of your account's age

No LQP or Harassment Warnings

No legitimate open or unresolved scam reports

No trolling or flaming other members

Acceptable grammar needed

We will also examine your threads, posts, rep, and other members' general opinion of you before we decide whether or not to invite you.

Note: We require our members to be very active and participate in all group activities, if you're not constantly and consistently online on Hack Forums than Eclipse isn't the group for you.

Previous Groups You've been in:

I am currently in Notorious. However, I have only been in it for a couple of days.

Why do you want to join Eclipse:

I would love to join Eclipse because it seems like a really cool community to be in. I love to learn new things, which I feel I will be able to do in this group because i'm sure the members have some incredible knowledge.

As well as this, I would also love to teach whenever I can, whenever I know something that someone needs help with, I always love to help them out. I always try to post high quality posts and threads and hope to be able to do this under the groups name. I really enjoy participating in discussions on HackForums in general and in sub forums. I am very active so I would love to join this group to have more discussions available for me to participate in.

I also love the groups graphics. It would be great having them by my name. I really enjoy meeting new people and joining this group would give me the change to meet a lot of new people who have have knowledge that I can also learn from.

I am a very active member on HackForums which is one thing you said we really needed to be. I always try my best to post high quality posts and threads and will continue to do this. I will always participate in group activities and discussions and look forward to doing so if I do get the opportunity to join this group. I love to meet new people and I am easy to get along with so I should be able to get on with everyone in the group and hopefully work together on things. I am a very loyal person, I would never do anything to harm the group in any way. I am active now with college on, in around 6 weeks, I will have a 9 week holiday which means I will be even more active.

Contributions:

I don't have many contributions at the moment. However, I hope to contribute to HackForums, I just need ideas on how to do that, maybe I will get some opportunities while in the group to do so.

I'm not sure if this counts, but this is something I made.

Why do you want to join Eclipse:I want to join Eclipse because I want to provide high quality contributions to your group, and under the name, brand and banner of your group to the HackForum's community as well. The knowledge, skills and talents I can teach have been gained from my studies in the past two years, as well as experiences I have had in my past. I will first talk about my studies, and the knowledge I can share to other members from them.

Firstly, I have been studying ICT / Computer Science for 2 years at college. The Computing subject is a subject that I have a lot of passion and interest for. This passion has made me carve a path for my future career in the ICT industry. During college, I have gained an abundance of knowledge within different areas. Some examples of the areas I have become knowledgeable in are: Computer System Security & Support, Computational Thinking, Programming (Visual Basic / C#) and Web Development (Basic HTML/CSS). I feel like I can spread the knowledge I have gained to the Eclipse and HackForum's members, to help them broaden their knowledge too.

I also understand that it is a skill itself to teach, or rather articulate. I know I can teach others to become knowledgeable in the same areas that I am, through my own easy to follow and understandable delivery methods.

Furthermore, in my past I have created, managed and adminstrated gaming servers for games such as Garry's Mod. I was responsible creating and configuring the server, adding files/addons and creating my own addons. In addition to this, I managed a team of staff and attracted donations to sustain and maintain the server without affecting my own pocket. Lastly, I also administrated multiple servers to maintain and increase the user experience of my players, through kicking and banning players according to set guidelines.

All of this is something I had to learn over a long period of time. I started at the bottom being a general player, and made my way to becoming essentially the Co-Owner and running multiple servers for the community. I can share my leadership and game-server knowledge.

Why should we invite you to the group: The reason why you should invite me to Eclipse, is because I have an abundance of knowledge to share within different areas. If we want ICT / Computer Science teachings, I can provide that. If we want game-server knowledge, skills, tips and information, I can share that too.

The knowledge and experiences I have had over the last 5 years have made gained me these knowledges and experiences due to hard work and studying to become a knowledgeable individual who can articulate his knowledge to others, so they can become knowledgeable in the shared areas too! Being able to teach others and share what I know would be really rewarding, as I feel like I would be contributing much more than just threads and posts. Knowledge is powerful and I want others to have knowledge positively influence them from what I serve.

Thank you for reviewing my application.

Name:Aerodactyl Profile Link:<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=3322334> Age:22 Time Zone:EST Skills:Vocabulary

I have been reading for pleasure for many years now, and I believe that shines through with how I conduct myself on Hack Forums in general. I was one of those kids that would always be carrying around one book or another wherever I went. I mostly stuck to dystopian literature, as that turned out to be my passion, but I would also throw some fantasy in there once in a while. I was also always in advanced placement classes meaning, at least in my school, that I continued with tests on vocabulary all throughout my time in high school. I also hope to convince you of my skills within the English dictionary throughout the course of this application. Grammar

This ties in fairly heavily with my first skill, vocabulary. I have also been writing on my own for many years now and believe I have become fairly proficient at it. I have written a few short stories on my own but those are long gone by now. In addition to that, I have also had no small number of pen pals which we would generally write around a page to one another in our various correspondences. I wouldn't mind looking over any potential threads that may be posted with or without the group's branding attached. Also I can guarantee that I will never be seen using the wrong form of "your" or "there" as that is a personal pet peeve of mine. Gaming

I have started the earliest on this particular skill. It all began with me getting a yellow Gameboy Color and a copy of Pokemon Blue. Since then gaming in general has been a permanent staple in my life. I have owned a Gameboy Color, Nintendo 64, Gameboy Advance, Playstation 1, Gamecube, Playstation 2, Playstation 3, Xbox 360, Nintendo 3DS, and last but not least Wii U. Most recently however I have gotten into PC gaming, most notably with Counter Strike: Global Offensive. I could also list all of my favorite games but I fear I would hit the character limit; if you deem it important enough send me a message and I will gladly list them all. I may not be amazing at video games but I do thoroughly enjoy playing whenever I get the time. PC Building

This would be what sparked my interest in PC gaming. I have custom built my current rig as well as many others for friends and family of varying budgets. I personally enjoy pricing everything out, especially with the challenge of a lower budget and struggling to get the absolute most for them according to their needs. Console Modification

For as long as I have been playing consoles, I have enjoyed customizing them. Most recently, I have dug into my 3DS and been adding custom themes as well as replacing the stock firmware with something more custom. I also had a fairly modified Playstation 3 to re-enable the ability to install Linux on the console. I was pretty heartbroken when Sony stripped that feature in a firmware "update." Being a genuinely friendly guy

This one is a bit more difficult to put into words. However, I have really enjoyed my time in the few lounge groups available on Hack Forums and I have even made a few friends out of the whole ordeal. I hope I get to prove this one personally. Previous Groups You've been in:Fusion

The Order

Skill

Brotherhood

Baka Why do you want to join Eclipse:The idea of a smaller, more closely knit group of extremely active members is very appealing to me. It is those sort of tight communities I find most interesting because that is where the better friendships can blossom. I have also spoken with a few of your members at one point or another and they seem like pretty cool people.

Why should we invite you to the group:If I were to be lucky enough to be invited to Eclipse I would first and foremost bring my activity. I have managed to keep over a ten post per day average over my seven months of memberships on Hack Forums. Never would you have to worry about random stints of inactivity from me, I thoroughly enjoy browsing this website and interacting with this community as a whole. I would also be happy to participate in any group activities.

I would also share whatever information I have gathered within the group sub-forum as well as outside of it. I wouldn't have any issue contributing to a help desk as long as I am somewhat knowledgeable on the subject matter. I have also created tutorial as well as a number of informative threads for the community.

Thank you for taking the time to review my application.

I also feel that with Eclipse's separate community I can focus and concentrate on learning completely new skills while contributing my own in return.

Why should we invite you to the group:The main benefits of having me include the fact that I am not afraid of admitting that I am wrong or misinformed if proven wrong on a specific topic, as I will seek out the correct answer and rectify my errors without aggressive or LQ responses. I've made a full CTF walkthrough for the HackFest 2016 challenges that (if I say so myself) are concise, to the point and simple enough for beginners to follow. Another contribution I persistently make and continue to improve is my public collection of eBooks in my signature, this collection is intended purely for HF members who are looking for new material to read regardless of their skill level. Furthermore, I am happy to assist specific members extensively in private (PM, Skype or Discord) with any topic I feel I can help with, however I refuse to waste the time of other members. If I honestly don't understand something sufficiently, I will make sure it is noted as to not confuse or misguide members.

It would be an absolute honor to join the ranks of Eclipse, and I hope you'll consider and appreciate the above statements.

Vocabulary

I have been reading for pleasure for many years now, and I believe that shines through with how I conduct myself on Hack Forums in general. I was one of those kids that would always be carrying around one book or another wherever I went. I mostly stuck to dystopian literature, as that turned out to be my passion, but I would also throw some fantasy in there once in a while. I was also always in advanced placement classes meaning, at least in my school, that I continued with tests on vocabulary all throughout my time in high school. I also hope to convince you of my skills within the English dictionary throughout the course of this application. Grammar

This ties in fairly heavily with my first skill, vocabulary. I have also been writing on my own for many years now and believe I have become fairly proficient at it. I have written a few short stories on my own but those are long gone by now. In addition to that, I have also had no small number of pen pals which we would generally write around a page to one another in our various correspondences. I wouldn't mind looking over any potential threads that may be posted with or without the group's branding attached. Also I can guarantee that I will never be seen using the wrong form of "your" or "there" as that is a personal pet peeve of mine. Gaming

I have started the earliest on this particular skill. It all began with me getting a yellow Gameboy Color and a copy of Pokemon Blue. Since then gaming in general has been a permanent staple in my life. I have owned a Gameboy Color, Nintendo 64, Gameboy Advance, Playstation 1, Gamecube, Playstation 2, Playstation 3, Xbox 360, Nintendo 3DS, and last but not least Wii U. Most recently however I have gotten into PC gaming, most notably with Counter Strike: Global Offensive. I could also list all of my favorite games but I fear I would hit the character limit; if you deem it important enough send me a message and I will gladly list them all. I may not be amazing at video games but I do thoroughly enjoy playing whenever I get the time. PC Building

This would be what sparked my interest in PC gaming. I have custom built my current rig as well as many others for friends and family of varying budgets. I personally enjoy pricing everything out, especially with the challenge of a lower budget and struggling to get the absolute most for them according to their needs. Console Modification

For as long as I have been playing consoles, I have enjoyed customizing them. Most recently, I have dug into my 3DS and been adding custom themes as well as replacing the stock firmware with something more custom. I also had a fairly modified Playstation 3 to re-enable the ability to install Linux on the console. I was pretty heartbroken when Sony stripped that feature in a firmware "update." Being a genuinely friendly guy

This one is a bit more difficult to put into words. However, I have really enjoyed my time in the few lounge groups available on Hack Forums and I have even made a few friends out of the whole ordeal. I hope I get to prove this one personally. Previous Groups You've been in:Fusion

Baka Why do you want to join Eclipse:The idea of a smaller, more closely knit group of extremely active members is very appealing to me. It is those sort of tight communities I find most interesting because that is where the better friendships can blossom. I have also spoken with a few of your members at one point or another and they seem like pretty cool people.

Why should we invite you to the group:If I were to be lucky enough to be invited to Eclipse I would first and foremost bring my activity. I have managed to keep over a ten post per day average over my seven months of memberships on Hack Forums. Never would you have to worry about random stints of inactivity from me, I thoroughly enjoy browsing this website and interacting with this community as a whole. I would also be happy to participate in any group activities.

I would also share whatever information I have gathered within the group sub-forum as well as outside of it. I wouldn't have any issue contributing to a help desk as long as I am somewhat knowledgeable on the subject matter. I have also created tutorial as well as a number of informative threads for the community.

Thank you for taking the time to review my application.

If it means anything I'd like to show my support for Aerodactyl. He may be weird at first but he's loyal, kind-hearted, and extremely active.

Previous Groups You've been in:None Why do you want to join Eclipse:I haven't had too much interest in the groups until I stumbled upon this thread. Being part of any group other than Eclipse seems to be more of an online status symbol than an actually valuable resource within Hackforums. By your introduction of Eclipse and the listed requirements to apply, I feel assured your group aims to stand out in that it sets out to actually be a pleasant and active community. I would definitely like to contribute to that.

Why should we invite you to the group:I consider myself to be a decent member on Hack Forums. I put thought and reason into my posts and try to make sure I post no redundant content. I do not seek confrontation or attention and I make proper use of my ignore list. I am essentially active only to exchange knowledge and talk some banter with other friendly users.

I would say I'm always ready to help out people, however I do try to stay away from people with proven open Deal Disputes on Hack Forums. Please do note that I do not meet the requirement of having 60+ posts per month of my account's age. I registered in May 2016 only to access the Marketplace once or twice, and became inactive due to other interests. I came back to Hack Forums by the end of 2016 to purchase and ask some questions about a RAT on here. I bought the program together with a crypter and used it on a VPS to show as a demo in a school related project of mine. After I finished that project, I left again. I found Hack Forums once more this March, this time due to my interest in cryptocurrencies. I have since enjoyed chatting about social networking, GFX, monetizing techniques such as E-commerce and CPA, and cryptocurrencies.

To get to the point here: I have posted over 350 times since March, which would put me at an average of over 150 posts a month if the counter were to be reset to my 'real' start at Hack Forums. You can expect the same level of activity for the years to come. I am absolutely hooked on this forum now.

Why do you want to join Eclipse:

I want to join Eclipse because it seems like a rather interesting group.

I want to experience my first group on Hack Forums, one that's of high standards. I thought Eclipse "fit the bill."

Why should we invite you to the group:Simply put, you should invite me because of my skill, and my specialties.

Everyone has certain qualities that make them stand out. I believe I can be a "high quality" contributor to Eclipse.

Why do you want to join Eclipse:Because I find interest in this group because it's unique and I saw a post "Views" posted on this thread saying "It would be nice to see some members applying with some skills that aren't to be discussed here on Hack Forums" And I know that I am a guy who is skilled at being unique and being diffrent, All my life-time I've been wanting to be diffrent because i found "Standard" really boring and over-rated. Some of my skills that are listed might not be so "unique" but there are things I'm skilled at that i really didnt want to type there. Curiosity of joining a hackforums group has always crossed my mind and I've tried to enter some of the groups here on Hackforums but that wasnt something succesfull because I never got accepted to one. As well I'm always up for meeting new people on the internet, even though I'm very shy (Working on removing my social anxiety). Hopefully this was not to short of a story.

Why should we invite you to the group:Because I'm a very polite and very honest person, as well as I'm very unique and I want to learn new thing and hopefully learn some of the members somthing I like and maybe we cound help each other in the future. I'm always there for people and thats one thing I think is very important in life is being there for your friends and thats a thing I am very good at. I'm a very good friend and if you need to talk you can always talk to me because I find myself very good at that. I'm trying to stay as high-quality as possible, still not the best at it but I'm really trying. Thanks for reading, love, Caesar.

Why do you want to join Eclipse:

I feel that the members of Eclipse share a similar mindset of being high quality and overall improve the forum, whether it be with information, cheerful replies, or funny moments. All of these attributes are ideally similar to myself, and I would like to further surround myself with these types of people.

Why should we invite you to the group:

All the skills I listed above are skills that I consider my strongest aspects. Due to my age and just not being as developed in each of them, I consider myself nowhere near perfection in any of those skills. However, the ability to accept this fact and continue working on my skill-set is a reason for you to consider me for Eclipse. I feel that I have an advantage over other users as I am able to learn quickly, can fit in easily, and can overall help impose a better environment for our group, and for HF overall. Much of my time is also freed up now, so I will be able to participate more than ever.

Writers Why do you want to join Eclipse:As far as wanting to join any group goes, Eclipse is number one for me. I absolutely love how hard it is to obtain membership to and that opinion will not change if I were denied. Eclipse is the pinnacle of groups currently active on HackForums and is a group other groups should inspire to be like. I have never seen any Eclipse member act unprofessionally or immature and every Eclipse member is extremely high quality. I have craved to join Eclipse for almost as long as the group has been around however never considered myself worthy. Eclipse has fantastic graphics and I am a big fan of the color scheme used for the group. I'd love a chance to prove myself as I am positive I will prove a very worthy member.

Why should we invite you to the group:I believe I should be accepted into Eclipse as I understand thoroughly what it would mean to be a member of the group. I feel as though I fit the 'position' and have the professionalism and maturity to represent Eclipse. I understand that members of the group represent Eclipse as a whole and thus I would act accordingly. I am more than happy to learn any skills required to retain membership. I would definitely be active in the sub-forum and participate in all group activities, contests, lounges, tournaments, required assignments and anything else that takes place within Eclipse. I am a friendly person and consider myself very easily approachable to the point that anyone can contact me for any reason whatsoever and I will be there for them. One of my biggest traits being a Leo is my loyalty and I will commit myself 110% to Eclipse and make the group my number one priority if accepted, always having the back of fellow members and keeping confidential information secure. I am more than happy to host giveaways and contests in the name of Eclipse. I consider myself extremely reliable and trustworthy. I have a clean reputation on HackForums and have never had any issues or deal disputes with any members. I will bring my all to Eclipse and constantly try to help the group evolve whilst ensuring my effort does not slack off after I have been in the group for a while, which I have seen on many occasions.

With all due respect, I'm confused as to why you want to wait until you've got a whole batch of approved applicants when it's rather clear most people won't make the cut. Wouldn't your decision to accept people from the first month motivate people to apply and/or work on their application?

Right now, the only impression I'm getting is that your group is looking for the top tier users only. Can't blame you for that, but after 40 days and this little result yielded, is a public thread even the way to go?

with some breaks <<long ones>>) which I use alongside ASM and/or alongside .NET/C# (which are used as a GUI for the application most of the time) for most of my projects. I also have a beginner knowledge in AutoIt which I learnt just because I was curious of it some time ago, thought I haven't really used it since. I am currently working at an anti-cheat (alongside some other friends) as a fun project that I plan to release for free for indie game developers when it will be ready.

I have sort-of a beginner knowledge of reverse engineering, that being because of me only using it twice for cracking applications, it being trough generating serial codes (which also requires C++ knowledge) or just bypassing the registering pop-ups (if applicable); and multiple times used when I'm making cheats for games (which I used to do a lot but now I have other projects that I'm working at).

Since I have to write at least three, I'll just squeeze this in.

A while ago, I used to do a lot of video editing/VFX and image editing/GFX (which I still do right now). Torque Why do you want to join Eclipse:I know the stuff you guys do around the forum and I think it's great. I love helping members around the forum through different ways. I mostly focus my time on giveaways and just answering general questions members have on the forum. I know you guys are a group about helping others so I believe I would be a great addition.

Why should we invite you to the group:I'm a pretty active member. I believe in my eyes, I have a pretty good reputation around the forum as I don't really do anything sketchy. I just try to help as many members as I can. I could host a couple help desks in different sections of the forum and of course host giveaways under the groups name.
