Can you possibly get proof to this actually working right with GB's or UMG's assuming the person who bought these lost?

The pictures are identical to the after action report. If you take a picture of your computer screen from phone and make it look like you are taking a picture of your monitor after a win. It will almost always result in a cancellation or win on your side for the match.

I never saw the point of this, both ps4/xbox one has built in recording on them anyway.

Surely this will get you banned more than it will get you the win, the only people who don't record proof are people you shouldn't lose against..
