Blog Commentator V1 is a niche finder tool for specific markets.

Reply back for more details

The idea here with Blog Commentator V1 is if you have a script on a site and you want to target traffic for the site. Then add comments on blogs related to the keyword you are using. For example you have a small site dedicated to unlock links then go after blogs that are talking about this or are using this method and advertise your website. On the test i use as a reference to create this tool i receive approximately 100 visits per day during 2 months with only 30 comments.

This is sooooo 2002! JK but seriously in todays IM world people are very wary of just letting any comment onto there posts - does this actually post or just help you find places to go and post to?

It's a simple tool, it will only find places to post your comments. I recently used it for testing, and the posting moderation doesn't seems to be a main priority for most blogs that i found. The text and links were added.
