Looks very good!

Quick question i may buy soon.

Will this work on autoit stubs? and what happens if file does not work after crypt?

What is the average lifespan of each crypt?

(May 16, 2017 11:20 PM)Vault7 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) What is the average lifespan of each crypt?

For private, it depends solely on your use of the crypt.

For shared crypts, it is very random. First detection can be anywhere from 12 hours to 48 hours.

Kisame? - May 17, 2017, 8:14 am

Good luck with the service, looks great. Bit pricey, though, but I guess that's needed when selling quality crypts.

Anyway, if you're handing out any vouches, I would love one.

Anyway good luck with the project

Your stub works with #? Have it been tested with it?

If yes, what is the best settings before I crypt and pay?

Disable all (Startup/Pesistence etc) in # and enable in fudpe or

Enable all (Startup/Pesistence etc) in # and disable in fudpe?

Want to crypt asap, so a fast answer will be appreciated.

Do you need my stub to have relocations or I should disable relocs?

By the way, I left you an urgent PM.

I suggest learning how to use the features of HackForums before enabling them.

Each crypted file is very unique, but for the highest difference private stubs are the way to go. ($150, when available.). You have to be fast with the private stubs as we only make a few and they go FAST.
