Made one of those cheeky, simple abstract shapes, this one is a mountain range casting a shadow, did a b&w version and a w&b version, then decided to change the position and size of the 'sun' to resemble a moon

Made 100% in illustrator in about 15-20 minutes

The 'night' has the wrong angle of lighting. Moon is on the left but light is on the right.

They both have wrong angles of light, also they're both 2d
It's not really made for accuracy ?

These are really cool! I like the simplicity of them. I'm not sure it was intentional or not, but the inner set of mountains aren't level with each other, while the outer set is. Regardless, it's sleek.
