I don't know why people make tattoos like your star in second tattoo. Its atheist symbol?

It's from an anime called Fullmetal Alchemist.

I've never come up with something good enough to justify putting ink to skin, but I probably will someday.

Fair enough. A good friend of mine is an artist and I got mine for basically nothing, and had to come up with my ideas on the spot!

My boyfriend and I are going to be getting tattoos in about a month and a half though, and it's going to be a lot of fun.

Fortunate - May 21, 2017, 3:48 am

Really love the first tattoo you linked.

I'd like to get a small tattoo at some point, but as of right now I have no meaningful things that I could tattoo on my body.

Banadmin - May 21, 2017, 4:04 am

Haven't got a tattoo YET. Going to Amsterdam in July and plan to get one there.

Damn, been wanting to get something on my shoulder or back for ages. Just been putting it off because I've put money into other things and working 6 days. Just want to make sure it's exactly what I want before I get one ? My mind's changed a lot since I first wanted one, like, 4 yrs ago.. 21 now, must get one soon. Lmao

I turn 16 in a couple of months and have thought about getting a tattoo on the left side of my chest. I was thinking of a bull similar in style to the Red Bull logo. It's going to represent my Mother's fierce personality and unpredictable mood swings ?. It's my way of keeping her close to my heart at all times.

Armada - May 21, 2017, 10:13 am

Got this when I was in the Military.

Figured it would be a good idea to have a marker with my country of origin and identification.

Spoiler \(Click to View\)

Turns out it was not the greatest idea to happen. Apparently my COs wanted me for JTF2, but I disqualified myself by getting the ONE tattoo I cant have for that division. No marking tattoos to indicate country or name/rank etc. Whoops.

Tattoos are very nice work of art and very lucrative for the artist though I'm inspired by drake's lifestyle and his statement in a 2013 interview;

"I try to really capitalize off of what other rappers really can't do. There are opportunities that rappers I love simply can't get, because... you know... I don't have the PIERCINGS, TATOOS or DRUGS; I have a different image"

I don't know how his mentor Wayne took this, but it really caught me ?

It is! I actually couldn't decide what I wanted tattoo'd that day for like an hour and a half. I'm not even exaggerating. My friend that did them was looking for someone to be her human canvas for an audition for a position at a tattoo salon, so I told her I was down, but didn't know what I want. I finally decided that I really dig neo-traditional art styles, and from there it took us a bit to settle on Noface.

Thanks a bunch. A lot of people initially think it's a temporary tattoo, because she put a thing white border around it that throws people off all the time.

Well, I'm not getting any tattoos that can't be covered up with a polo style shirt. Plus don't have money for that sorta stuff. As I get more small ones and start reaching the limit of where I'd like to be with them, I want to get the empty space filled in with some kind of cool background that'd tie them all together.

as I said, it was just a personal opinion.

the reason I go for a half sleeve is so that it's always covered by work attire (suit or long sleeve shirt) No need to show it off 24/7 very uncommon choice, why did you make it?

Just the beginning I said. ? I have an idea in mind that will fill the lower half of my arm and then I'll think about going higher. I don't really wear tank tops or anything that much so I think it'd be pointless to get something on my upper arm. Until I start working out more, I'm going to refrain from getting something on my upper arm. :) A lot of people have half sleeves on their lower arm actually, it's not uncommon at all.
