Thread: Looking for staff for a new game hacking community

Frizz - May 21, 2017, 12:17 pm

Hey everyone,

Im currently looking for a couple of people that are interested in becoming a staff member of the new community me and my friend are working on, the community is about multiplayer games hacking and will have sections as anime,discussions,gaming,consoles,leaks and more.

Im only looking for 2 staff members and maybe 5-10 members that will help us get the community to stand among every other, every member that joins us and stays with the community will get a special reward only those can get.

Join our discord to talk to us for the staff position or if you want to just help the community by being active and making new content.

I suppose I'd be down to try out your forum. I wouldn't be too active in the anime section though, not my cup of tea.

There's going to be alot more then just a anime section, the forum is based on multiplayer game hacking. But I just wanted to throw out that there will be anime section for the anime fans.

Join the discord if you want to talk :)
