Thread: Would the good old times ever come back?

Do you think the good old times would ever come back?

I really wonder if they're questioning about whether to bring back gambling or not.

Most of the enjoyment I got from Habbo came from stealing furni/accounts and scripting. If I could do that as easily as I could back in the day then I would probably still be able to have some fun. That being said, old Habbo had a much smaller variety of furniture that all adhered to the art style which made even a floor mat desirable. Also the people that I met were all at the very least a mature sixteen years old. The older crowd enabled everyone to have a different caliber of fun. Habbo's player base is much younger now and I think a lot of Sulake's decisions try to cater to that demographic.

tldr; go back to shockwave style habbo when things were more lenient and the old times will return

Nah I think its done. As much as I wish we could go back to the 05 days its not gonna happen. Fully expect Habbo to be gone in 3 years.

You can still have that enjoyment haha, that's mainly the reason why I still log on to Habbo. If you know what you're doing, easy $$

They wont its a dead beat game. A company could only have so many mistakes.

What method? Ratting? The other one I can't mention but it is based on them inputting their login details into a webpage?

there was a sentry mba config last year but that got patched theres still people that setup keylogging websites but its pretty easy to get ip banned through that but theres still methods if your willing to put in time tldr; go back to shockwave style habbo when things were more lenient and the old times will return that tldr made me chuckle, would be the worst possible business move for them (prior to the new players who never experienced shockwave, guessing a high percentage of the current online time would hate it). Habbo's dead, it won't ever be a popular game again let alone fun.
