Thread: Just handed my dissertation in. FeelsGoodMan

I've been up until stupid o'clock every morning for the past 5 months studying and researching and over time collating this colossal 55,000 word report on computer security for college.

I've been studying for two years now and this was the last piece of work to be handed in which will determine our overall grade for the year. I'm an A student so I'm hoping for another A to replicate my first year which was graded via exams rather than a ballache of a project such as this.

To celebrate this occasion I've just treated myself, or my car rather, to a £700 spoiler and some other tarty accessories. Now I'm heading out to the longest stretch of road I can find to burn through a full tank and probably a set of tyres.

Man it feels good.

Good luck with anyone else with deadlines lingering. Just remember that it's a temporary struggle for a permanent degree. You got this.???

Sure, I'll post a photo of my car and the spoiler in question. And thanks. :)

And here's the Mugen wing. ?
