Thread: AOT Season 2 \(who else is watching?\)

So yeah I been watching the English dub on Adult Swim because my usual show doesn't come back until next fucking year. So I figured "I watched season 1, let's see what season 2 brings".

I actually liked it so far, it is getting more into what the Titans are, and who the characters are. Motives, lore, backstories. Etc. The first season really lacked much backstory aside from the main characters. It made you question why a character is the way they are. Felt like they should have led the series with that so you cared more when a side character died, because through season 1 I generally didn't give a fuck.

Ep 6 dub was supposed to be on fucking adult swim on saturday but the nig nogs aired samurai jack all night

THOUGHTS SO FAR

Okay, beginning the series with "the walls are made of titans" is kind of neat, but it seems they just abandoned talking about it. That seemed to be the main development. Why the fuck are the walls made of titan. How the fuck. And why does the church guy hide it.

Then it kind of just stops being talked about when the titans hit, understandable. I hope they get back to it. But apparently some Titans talk, and they're led by one big titan. And apparently Amir is a fucking titan.

I'm curious to see what the motives are, and where does this go.
