TL:DR

Runes and masteries are becoming one.

All runes will be free and a system will be put in place to return all your ip spent on runes.

Keystones are becoming a lot stronger.

The honor system is being revamped and will make a bigger impact.

Didn't watch the last bit but yeah. This is coming in the november preseason. Honestly looks pretty cool.

If they will return IP to all players I think they are gonna increase Champion and Icon prices. Time to invest in champion shards.

I hope not. I think its just as a payback for all the newish players who have been pouring ip into runes. Some of those quints are like 2k a piece.

They won't increase champion and icon prices because they said they wanted new players to have a larger champion pool, I hope they decrease champion prices if anything.

They did say with the new honor system key fragments and such will drop more frequently if you have higher honor points. So new players can earn more loot by being friendly.
