Thread: People who complain about very long prison sentences, shut the fuck up

Grand Pootis - June 2, 2017, 5:37 am

We have seen too many Change.org petitions where people say "grant clemency to Tyrone for getting 10 years for selling 20g of weed"

And they always go on to say how unfair the sentence is, etc. Do people not realize that they can read the laws about whatever they're doing? Those sentencing guidelines are set in stone, and regardless of who that crime affects, there are sentencing standards that will be fulfilled.

If you don't want to go to prison for that amount of time, then don't commit that crime. How is that hard to understand?

Honestly the whole prison thing is about money, not morals.

I agree that if someone decides to break the law then they should expect to do time. Also US drug laws are a bit extreme. I believe they need to revise the drug laws for the new generation where drugs like marijuana are soon to be legal in many states.

Laws and sentences can suck my dick. Ask R. Ulbricht.

The legal system itself is fucked up.

Pedophiles and Child Molesters need to be castrated. I am not joking about that. Castration or death.

Also, drug laws have fucked up our country because weed isn't that big of a deal is making taxpayers waste their money paying for decent citizens that sold weed.

Is not a big deal.

Actually sentence guidelines are not set in stone, only the minimum and maximum.
