It's crazy to think about. In the past three months alone, a handful of users have multiplied their investments in cryptocurrencies. If you had $10 to your name, you've probably earned at least a $100...if you had $100 to your name, you've probably earned at least a $1000. Some users have turned only a few thousand into a million.

The barrier to entry in this market is not great. Convert your paper money to a coin and you're set. It wasn't always like this...trading used to be very tedious and technical because growth didn't appear to be as drastic as what we're seeing now.

What this means is that you cannot be stupid and throw your money into anything that users recommend. Doing that may work in some cases, but for the most part, that will lead to a loss. Users who promote a coin aren't always right.

' Users who promote a coin aren't always right '

I think this is what most of the market needs to understand - if you are looking to make real money then the real money lies within your own time used to do research on a specific coin because it will definitely be worth it in the short term or long term.

Most accurate post I've seen in this entire section thus far. That picture is a perfect representation of these 'prediction threads' constantly floating around here haha pure gold!

Yin Yang - June 3, 2017, 3:32 am

Yeah most of them went against the grain and were called stupid for their initial investment. Do your own research and don't follow the crowd

I repeat, don't follow the crowd. Yeah youre right. You make money with anticipations

The crowd dictates the price. Understand the crowd, but don't blindly follow it.

?Enlightened - June 3, 2017, 3:44 am

Do your own research is a very under-rated term here...It's sad to see people throwing money at things just because someone said so...

I'm going to make a guide and pay for a sticky soon, purely on how to do your own research. Because obviously not many people know how to do it, and lose out in the end.

Indeed, do your own research because listening to the wrong advice will mean you're essentially losing money.

Eg.

If you had invested in DGB 2 months ago, lets say $10,000 you'd have $380-400k rn lol.

DGB's price is completely artificial...unless having a non-functional wallet is good news, I guess.

'You make money with anticipations'. Spot fucking on.

Skidy - June 3, 2017, 4:02 am

For a Uni student having an extra £12k is a massive gain. Will help me out massively, especially as I only started with £400.

SIM-403479 - June 3, 2017, 4:03 am

I still believe there is a lot more to be made, we're still in the early stages.

No doubt some coins will fall and people will lose money.

Reav - June 3, 2017, 4:05 am

Unsure if I should invest in STRAT or SIA
Any opinions?

Frukt - June 3, 2017, 4:05 am

Started with $500, after 14 days I had $2000.

I never watched a tutorial, I couldn't read graphs and I just followed everyone else, jumped on trains etc.

Easy money, I was lucky and I have earned a lot by this time, enough to buy almost whatever I want to at this age.

Tzuyu - June 3, 2017, 4:06 am

I still regret not investing my 1 BTC into Ethereum when it was $7 a few months ago. That being said though, you aren't going to get anywhere just having money sitting around. Instead of holding onto it, you might as well invest it into something. That way it doesn't stay stagnant. Everyone has an investment in something, whether it be stocks, real estate, or cryptos. Not every investment you make is going to make you money, but it's better than just letting it sit there.

Evanescent - June 3, 2017, 4:08 am

Good lesson. I always do some research before investing on any coin.

Tell me in 1 sentence what dgb is about.

Fragger - June 3, 2017, 4:11 am

It's crazy as hell how much some people have made of this, holding long term is key.

Solid advice right there. If you get into technical analysis this is exactly what you are doing when analysing graphs and data.

Eagerkid - June 3, 2017, 5:48 am

Still people will listen to the idiots in this section that make a thread and say " bought X coin for $X" with no information or articles

GrandpaSherman - June 3, 2017, 5:53 am

Try $20 to 10k :) in three months and every week
$600 from $20

FamousHater - June 6, 2017, 6:29 pm

unless someone bought btc years ago doubt any millionaires on here

just a bunch of self proclaimed ones lol

DenizZ - June 6, 2017, 7:08 pm

A lot of people made profit but honestly:

"Most investors want to do today what they should have done yesterday." - Lawrence Summers

I couldn't agree more. Taking recommendations is not smart, everyone should do their own research.

Caliban - June 6, 2017, 7:09 pm

I feel like most coins are overvalued right now and there is a major correction incoming. (maybe pretty soon)

However long term (next 3-10 years), if some coins manage to become mass adopted, we could still see huge growth. Its a huge gamble and we will see some winners and losers (that will be bagholding worthless alts).

just a bunch of self proclaimed ones lol doubt any one here is making that but there could be people making close to that, there are a few users on here who made 200k+

so there is probably someone making $500k+

It's crazy to think I started out with $1000 in xrp a few months ago. Now I'm holding around 50 grand between several different coins. Sold off all my ripple but it payed off big time. I still don't plan to cash out until I have life changing money though .

If you invested $1,000 into stratis ICO, which was less than a year ago. You would now have over 1 million dollars.

That Poppy - June 6, 2017, 9:52 pm

I'm hoping to become a millionaire of cryptos :^) (stratis)

I'm not sure when I'll stop.... I'm not sure where it stops lol

Do you think I'm going to become a millionaire with 7500 strats @Minimalist?
