Thread: Well played, Jagex. Well played.

Cha0 - June 10, 2017, 1:55 am

So some of you may have heard of it, there's a new client out there called OSHD and it does exactly what you think and it scared the fucking shit out of Jagex.

Why would they care? Because OSBuddy makes insane profits and they obviously have a deal with Jagex. So the last thing they want is to pull users away from OSB/main client.

So how are they preventing people from using OSHD? Simple, warn people that it might trigger their anti-bot detecting system and then ban the most famous YouTuber on RS knowing he'd make a video about it. ?

Dick move but genius from a business perspective.

(Btw, quote from OSHD: "We have received an email from Jagex moments ago. We have been notified we will be receiving news on Monday." inb4theygetaseizeanddesistemail.)

Not gonna be surprised if they get a cease and desist letter considering they stole all the textures that are property of Jagex.

Flash ? - June 10, 2017, 1:58 am

Damn jagex fucking genius banning afriend (Maybe its scripted)

Which would have been fine imo if they would have released the client for free without a pro version. Now that they're profitting from someone else's property they sure as hell will get a cease and desist.

Or.... They might offer OSHD a similar deal they have with OSB.

Fair possibility.

A friend is pretty close with Jagex these days.

TyrantKingBen - June 10, 2017, 2:05 am

They have to make money so they will scare users away from it while OSBuddy works on implementing the same features.

Also, you realize it's not seize and desist, it's cease and desist, as in stop and don't start again.

HIGHLY doubt the video is scripted. If it was A Friend would probably not call it weird or suspicious in the comments or whatever it was he typed.

Also, I don't think stealing is allowed even if you don't profit from it ?

Well you'd call it stealing but we clearly have a different ideology about that and this isn't the thread to discuss our differences.

You thinking that is exactly why I'd totally make that comment if I made a deal btw lol.

LMAO, been saying that wrong for years. ?

Thanks.

Nah man, he would have made that clear if that was the case. Instead he's keeping it intentionally vague.

'There is no promises anything is gonna happen.'

Thats implying that they MIGHT work together. Not shut it down.

Atleast thats what I think.

He did not even specify what he is not making promises on lol.

He's probably imaging the rage of the community if he does not make it seem like he at least tried.

I'm glad that I don't care so much about OSHD, I can see how upsetting it is to some people as it's central to their nostalgia around RS. I'm not sure if I'd use it or not, as I like the old school graphics. Some things are undeniably better about the new graphics but I really like the old ones too. What I hate is how badly the interfaces port into resizeable mode.

Anyway on topic I think Jagex will do this at some point because they said resizeable would be impossible and they got that done really quick.

Mr. Robot - June 10, 2017, 6:14 am

Completely fair in my opinion, they have to do what they can.

Me calling it stealing is not about ideology buddy, it's law. You can't take someone else's copyrighted work and just use it for your own product. Doesn't work like that.

Lovely? - June 10, 2017, 9:30 am

OSHD was shit anyways in my opinion, I like the old graphics much better. But well as long as it's optional

Greatest - June 10, 2017, 9:57 am get the fuck on eoc if you want to use those graphics you dirty cunts

Stealing is when someone takes something from you. Did Jagex lose the textures? I said this thread wasn't the place for this discussion though. PM me if you really wanna discuss.

I completely understand what you're saying, and I get your point, but that's just not how it works when it comes to things that are copyrighted.

I assume you know that YouTube disables the audio for a lot of videos that puts copyrighted music without the consent of the creator. Did YouTube or the creator lose the music soundtrack? No, they did not. However, the content is still copyrighted, and if they didn't get permission to utilize that content, then it is the equivalent to stealing.

The exact same thing applies to assets/textures in video games. The creator or authorized distributor has not necessarily lost the content.

If OSHD has used those assets/textures without the permission of Jagex, then they are, quite frankly, stealing and using copyrighted things in something that is their own.

Jays On My Feet - June 10, 2017, 12:34 pm

I thought OSBuddy works with Jagex to make their client as well as Jagex themselves openly supporting the use of it. So there shouldn't be an issue.

Exactly. I'm not sure how this is hard concept to understand.

@OP Also why the fuck would I PM you to discuss this instead of posting in this thread? Lol

Disses - June 10, 2017, 4:07 pm

Where can I read up on the terms between jagex and osbuddy?

puresplz - June 10, 2017, 5:51 pm

Hehe its ran by two interesting people in the RS community

Quint from Haxunit and an old Buga buse friend and Tom a friend I made randomly while on having the account elvemage. Tom is the owner of Topbot which at one point was the best OSRS bot since it's was undetectable for long periods. If Jagex fix's the OSHD code you can see topbot being updated as well for his own private use since Topbot was closed before the release of OSHD ;)

The scene is so interesting and it's so cool how people evolve and move on! This is the reason I think OSRS is weary, and the fact they will lose tons of money on osbuddy haha

I can understand that, and you're entitled to your opinion, but it's completely illogical because that's just how it works. I'm not saying I abide by it fully myself, but that's just how the law and logic works in regards to this - whether you agree or not; that is the reality.

Nice to see that these client's are now allowed in the new updates jagex has recently released.

They've always been particularly ornery about anything that loses them even the slightest bit of money.

Cheers,
~Trill.

This post aged well.

Can now launch OSHD right from Jagex launcher.
