Thread: Users obtaining rep through "dodgy" methods.

Mr. Robot - June 11, 2017, 5:24 pm

So this just caught my attention - <https://hackforums.net/reputation.php?uid=3536154>
<https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=3536154>

This user here on a daily basis, goes and neutrals people - then when they return a -3 or neutral back, he will tell them wrong person or mistake which makes users change their rep on him and he'll change his.

This effectively has allowed the user to farm reputation.

He's camping Stashys rep at the moment so lets see if he updates it.

This does tell us obviously the user is a multi, and is here to scam.

NurSpec - June 11, 2017, 5:28 pm

Lmao, that's actually pretty smart and even smarter of you to have caught him out.

EthanX - June 11, 2017, 5:30 pm

Yeah i'm going to assume that wouldn't be allowed. Someone in the top 10 as far as most reputation goes, that i know did that back in 2013 and got their first 1000 that way. It's not exactly fair.

Rikz - June 11, 2017, 5:31 pm

Lool as both guys above me said, that is smart af. But props to you for noticing that bahaha wth is going on how did you even notice that

Charger - June 11, 2017, 5:31 pm

Rep abuse. Used to happen a lot. "Pm to resolve".

Skrrrt - June 11, 2017, 5:31 pm

Do you have proof of him doing that? You didn't include ANY proof at all lol.

Rikz - June 11, 2017, 5:32 pm

You're being kind of stupid mate. It's clear cut, this isn't the justice system

EthanX - June 11, 2017, 5:32 pm

In addition to that, I don't think calling someone a dumb mexican retard in a rep is allowed. It's considered flaming, right?

How is it clear cut? Because he repped Mr. Robot and stashy with neutrals that means he's doing rep4rep? okay?

If he straight admitted to it, then yeah sure why not - i'd PM staff rather than make a thread, but sometimes it isn't as clear cut as that. Unfortunately it's hard to prove without going into every little detail involved so in this case it's better to alert those of what he's doing and alert staff to be on the lookout.

Very old "method" honestly, not that I've ever done it. But I've always known about it.

What's good about this is that not everyone is going to change their -3 back to +3 because they just realized what he actually did.

Yep, takes advantage of the fact you can't delete rep. 100% abuse.

Patrick Jane - June 11, 2017, 5:42 pm

I mean if you look at this: <https://hackforums.net/reputation.php?uid=3536154>

7 people have not changed their reputation because they've realized this idiot's tactics.

"You have already given as many reputation ratings as you are allowed to for today."

Also it was given when I first started watching his profile.

Mr. Robot - June 11, 2017, 6:01 pm

Ugh we'll let staff deal with it, just wanted to put it out there and make sure it's not OK to be done.

If anyone else sees this sort of shit happening, PM minimalist or whatever and get it at least looked into.
