Thread: Bullying on an epic scale

onebluejedi - June 12, 2017, 1:29 pm

I live stream on youtube, now I know that means I should expect to be trolled and I can handle the usual trolls saying awful things to me in the chat, but this has gone beyond the trolling stage.

I am having a big problem on youtube with two bullys and its got very serious they troll me, stalk me, they make fun of me and they have made death threats in ps4 party chat, they will give out my address on a live stream, or try to swat me during a live stream which they have done sucessfully once.

I am not the only person they are doing this too I'm one of many.

I have blocked them but but they just do the obvious by creating new accounts.

I have recorded them making death threats and bullying others and i have taken screen shots of the awful things they post in chat and then put it all in a video to encourage people to report there youtube channels, but not enough people reported them and they didn't get banned.

I have told youtube i have even told the police but nothing happens.

I have become fed up with blocking them because its pointless they keep coming back so i have given up they have been using there current youtube accounts non stop with out fail for the last few months because that way at least i know who they are.

Im getting to the stage were i will just stop using youtube and that means the bullys have won and I'm the one being forced off youtube.

I know another person who they are bullying and he is really on the edge and I worry about him because you hear about suicides caused from bullying. Not so long ago his mum died and they posted in chat during his stream that they are glad his mums dead to get him do break down during his live stream.

They even name their own streams with the title as "Were glad your mums dead"

For me that crosses the line its gone way beyond the trolling stage

If there was a way to get these two people ip banned from youtube even if it was just for the usual 3 month ban that would be perfect revenge because these two trolls openly stream and say they are untouchable.

But i doubt that will ever happen, if any of you have any ideas or can help your support would be welcome.

I have made two videos about them if you want to see them pm or drop a reply here with your twitter name and i will send you the links.

Thank you
