Thread: [\[Suggestion\] Add Facebook Video as embedded \[video\] option.](#)

Leroy Jethro Gibbs - June 15, 2017, 12:06 am

Pretty self explanatory. Make it where we can add Facebook videos to our posts. Anyone else think it would hurt to have?

M?xim - June 15, 2017, 12:18 am

Well, the reason why we don't have Facebook-tags already is probably due to the fact that Facebook doesn't have strict rules on what can be posted and whatnot. While YouTube, for example, doesn't allow a nipslip or whatever.

Neutral here.

Because all of the videos you'll find on FB are also on YouTube.

That's definitely not true... There are a lot of videos on FB that are not on YouTube. Some people like to keep things private, but in this case, it's easier for people to upload videos on FB than on YT. Eventually, most if not all videos do end up being on YT.

Reality of it is, we have moderators here and on Facebook for a reason. Also, Facebook doesn't allow nipslips or anything like that. It just has to be reported. Same shit with Youtube. I would like to Facebook video added for a number of reasons. 1. Live Streams from News Sources are much easier to locate on Facebook. 2. People could actually Live Stream on Facebook to Hackforums. 3. Videos that don't make it to Youtube right away could be posted directly from Facebook rather than having to download and reupload a video that could possibly lead to your channel getting a copyright strike depending on the creator.

So over all I believe its no different from Youtube.

I rather not have to download a Facebook video to upload to youtube to then post it.

What the hell are you talking about?

Facebook actually does have strict rules & Facebook doesn't allow nipslips either imgur.com doesn't filter anything, and you can post them here

gyazo doesn't filter anything either, and you can post them here (for your info, you can post mp4 on gyazo)

Also nipslip (or nudity in general) could be posted in an image. I'm pretty sure that's not the reason why facebook is not added here..

Just because it's not added doesn't mean it's banned here.

Kid, you really need to stop stalking all my posts and flaming me, lol.

You are annoying.

Facebook would remove a video for a nipslip. They both are strict and heavily moderated, but both have videos that slip through. There is porn all over YouTube.

Personally I don't really use facebook and I am not sure if this feature would be used a lot on a forum like HF.

If a members would like to see this as a feature and actually use it once implemented, it would be worth it but I don't really think this is needed.

Our of the 3 million people registered I better not be the only one to use it lol. I've actually wanted to link to Facebook videos before but found it can't be done easily. I still believe that the feature would be useful to those that could use it. Regardless, I think my suggestion is very reasonable and shouldn't require too much effort to add. Just my opinion though lol.

That's where you're wrong. Tons of videos that have been reported on FB for nudity and gore are still up.

Actually for example is a picture. Some girl blatantly posted her tits but once FB took it down she countered the claim by saying she was a guy, and the picture was restored.

FB does not really have strict guidelines compared to YouTube.

Imgur has a policy against nudity being submitted. That's why they targeted a bunch of subreddits and have done a good job at cleaning up the nudes that have slipped by.

I feel like this would be a pretty cool add on. Facebook does get daily news source first hand every day

Omniscient - June 15, 2017, 6:01 pm

Fuck FaceBook. No.
