Hey Mr. Ransom,

I was planning on getting a RAT to play with it but I noticed an article on how python scripts could figure out the user of the RAT and turn tables from the victim to the owner of the RAT. I put out a thread today with a little about it and was wondering if someone with your expertise would know which RATs would be vulnerable. The thread is here:

Are you up for a challenge?

Do you think you can setup a rat for me etc. when I got 0 bucks to spend?

I'm in a new house I think I never done anything with my portforwarding or RAT here so that means a fresh start just a challenge. :)

Hmu ;p

Are you not capable of forwarding regular routers? Why not attempt before telling people to spend money? ?

I mean.. Port forwarding does come with the general setup of a RAT.

Also, if you know a free VPN that allows port forwarding do let me know. ?

i do not endorse or vouch nor use free vpns. due to logging.

It's clear this isn't going anywhere with a language barrier this big.

Best of luck with your service.

(All VPN's log, even paid ones)

there is a difference between logging and minimal logging.

Are you seriously debating this?

Can you walk a user through port forwarding properly without the requirement of a VPN?, that was a pretty straight forward question man.

i am able to do this with a vpn.

reason why i do not include is cause everybody use different kinds of routers.

i personally dont use a router.
