Thread: Has anyone on HF ever had success with PTC websites?

Nebo - June 24, 2017, 6:37 am

Hey guys,

I was skimming through my old emails and I noticed some PTC websites that I was registered on in the past.

Sites like, Neobux, bux.to and so many others.

So an idea crossed my mind, has ever anyone on HF had any success with PTC?
If you can also say how much $ have you made that would be great.

Ponzi schemes will never make you money, it's not worth wasting words explaining why. None ever made money and those who think they did, they eventually returned it all back + more.

Neobux is a scam.

When I made "too much" earned within their rules they declined to pay me then threatened to sue me for posting screenshots of the interactions on reddit.

dont waste your time

I have not used any PTC for ages, literally, just asking because I saw a lot of people post in earning proof section on Neobux.

I don't know why people are wasting their time with PTC.

The vast majority of them are ponzi schemes.

The remaining legit ones will drag you through mud and blood to make a few cents per month.

Just move onto something else. CPA or Affiliate Marketing. Clicking and earning a fraction of a cent is ridiculous.

Don't get me wrong, I've no interest in these sites. I'm doing CPA for well over a month now and I've no plans to go back to stuff like PTC.

Thread is just a small question to the few HF people that actually did PTC before.

Fair enough. :)

Apologies for any misunderstanding.

PTC sites are scam sites, they just want you to rent referrals but you will have to recycle them and you will end up losing money

I would recommend you to take a look at the CPA / PPD Make Money section.

It has quite a few CPA tutorials that will help you get started.

Don't even register to those sites (or any PTC website in general). 99.99% of them are ponzi/fake and 0.01% will make you click 10 hours just to make couple cents. There is no money in PTC, atleast not for you.

Your best bet would be to look into CPA & PPD, it doesn't require much work to setup (but it does require some investment). ?

I'm not looking to get into it, just asking about member's experiences with PTC.

I don't understand why so many people misunderstand this thread, when I clearly stated in the OP that it is just a question.

Anyways, CPA is the money.

No they are usually just misleading scam sites or they are not even worth the time.
