Thread: How To Properly Bump Your Marketplace Thread

M?xim - June 25, 2017, 6:57 am

What is Post Bump Delete (PBD)?

Quote:"PBD is where you make a new reply in your thread, wait for another post, which bumps your thread then you delete the post." >> Source

This is worth mentioning here because it is not allowed. Doing PBD will get you repkilled and your sales thread closed.

How do I properly bump my thread?

Quote:"If you want your thread bumped you should make a quality post that positively affects your sales thread or responds to a pertinent reply to another post. Posts like "I'm online now" are not acceptable. " >> Source

Let's break it down and begin with "positively affects your sales thread":

This does not mean that you should say that your live support is online. Even if it might affect sales good that you have a support, it's something that you could say at any time and therefore it counts as low quality bumping.

Do

"Just generated a coupon code for 15% off your next purchase! Simply click "Enter Coupon" and enter MAXIM15PERCENT. It has 3 uses."

"I have made some major improvements to the GUI of the software. Since It doesn't auto-update you need to download it yourself, just PM me for the link!"

Don't

"I'm online now"

"All tickets have answered"

"PM me if you need any help"

"Still looking to buy UK AGC!"

"Still offering my service."

"Bumping this up hit me up with the offers."

"Thanks for the vouches online now taking orders"

"You can buy this awesome product for $xx"

Then we have "responds to a pertinent reply to another post":

This means that you are allowed to reply to a post as long as your reply is at the minimum of 25 characters, it won't count as low-quality bumping then.

Do

"Thank you for contacting me regarding this issue, to solve it you can..."

"I appreciate the feedback, if you need anything just let me know."

Don't

"Thanks." (Not 25 characters or above)

"Cheers. Support is online now." (Because your reply to the post is so short and meaningless, you are still violating the LQB rule)

What is Buddy Bumping?

It is off-site groups dedicated to bumping marketplace threads. Where people ask each other to bump their threads. It is LQB and Omniscient has clearly stated that he will be closing people who does so. You can read his official thread about Buddy Bumping here. It is low quality bumping no matter what you say. Posts like:

"I have sent you a PM"

"Nice thread design"

"Does this involve... this and that?"

Will get you and your friends closed.

Mr. Robot - June 25, 2017, 6:58 am

I knew this one was on its way. Thanks Maxim, should keep idiots like h3god and a few others from doing stupid buddy bumping and post bump delete.

AlphaIndustries - June 25, 2017, 7:01 am

Maxim back at it again with a HQ thread, this should be read by a lot people so we can stop the annoying bumping.

Chief - June 25, 2017, 7:02 am

Maxim PM me let's buddy bump ;)

/s

Nice thread my friend! Should help everyone out.

Mycroft Holmes - June 25, 2017, 7:03 am

Thank you very much for making this thread.

I hope we finally stop seeing so many marketplace violation warnings being given out for low quality sales thread bumping.

Mr. Reviewer - June 25, 2017, 10:13 am

Will definitely keep in mind and use this since I have a selling thread.Great contribution to the marketplace.

FamousHater - June 25, 2017, 10:20 am u forgot some for the dont's as there are others that qualify for LQ

as the rule still wont make sense as u can say this item is now back in stock and thats considered a LQ bump

(Jun 25, 2017 10:20 AM)FamousHater Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) u forgot some for the dont's as there are others that qualify for LQ

I could come up with 100's of dont's but I think that the general understanding is sufficient.

(Jun 25, 2017 10:20 AM)FamousHater Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) as the rule still wont make sense as u can say this item is now back in stock and thats considered a LQ bump

Say that you are selling a keylogger, you will always have stock, right?

You are basically bullshitting if you are saying "Refilled with licenses" and you will get slapped with a warning for that.

And another example, say that you are selling Amazon Gift Cards and you have been out of stock for a while and the thread has been closed.

Then you are fine to come back and say that you are back in business because you have more to sell.

But you cannot say "Got more AGCs now" every day, that should already be stated in the OP.

Not sure if that explained it.

Not sure if that explained it.example is for account selling. if your selling direct tv for example and your out of stock i dont see whats LQ about telling people the item is back in stock as people do subscribe to threads for that reason to keep an eye for updates on accounts etc..

i understand what your saying but very fine line between bumping thread saying im online and bumping telling users an account they have emailed or pm u about is back in stock or for future buyers.

Indeed. However, I do believe that you have misunderstood that It has something to do with LQ but more about that it is something that should be stated in the thread.

You should have something like "Stock: 7" on your thread that people can look for. The thread should not need post(s) to keep people updated regarding the stock. And THAT will allow people to bump their thread in an LQ way. Because you can easily abuse it, right?

You can pretend to always be re-stocking and have your thread bumped with no warnings then.

Therefore the forum simply cannot allow posts that have to do with your stock status.

My best guess.

My best guess. True but your "do" example could be abused to. person can say i fixed the program or updated the GUI but did he really? u can pretend but then whats the point cause lets say u say stock updated on direct tv then users click shop to buy and stock shows zero.
that does nothing for the seller so dont see people abusing updated stock as a bump.

Well. I honestly do see what you mean, but if I say that I have made some changes to the builder of my keylogger for example and that customers should PM me for the updated version; then they will contact me, and I will give them a new download link and they will want to ask me what's updated. I guess that can also be bullshitted, but would someone really do all this for a bump? ?

It's being enforced regularly just you can't tell them apart from other marketplace violation warnings. We don't rekill for the first time unless Omni catches you, then god have mercy on your account.

Since those aren't LQ posts.

They were junked by another staff member but warnings weren't issued. Consider that a serious soft warning.

How about answering non extent questions?

No one fucking asked HOW to get the product, but he answered it anyways. Cause well shit that must be a problem for him. But when challenged on this, the justification is just awesome, and I quote:

i don't see nothing wrong with my bumps

I am allowed to bump my own threads once every 24 hrs as long as it's not a lq post

How is me telling people we will add stripe soon a lq post? Lmao stay in your lane weirdo. No wonder you don't make anything on h.f

I have retired from drama and meddling with other people's business.

But.. I might as well say something.

Whether this is written or not I don't care but I know that this is how it is:

- If you have a sticky, the LQB rules are not as strict because you have not much to gain from bumping a stickied thread.

So saying things like "Hey this might be added in the future" or "This is how the process looks like" isn't a big deal. His bumps are well over.. What? 150 characters?

I really don't see how people have problems with H3God's bumping. As I see it, he has figured out how to not get warnings, and I applauds.
