Synopsis

Lies are forbidden and love is doubly forbidden. In the near future, when young people in Japan turn sixteen, they are assigned a marriage partner by the government. People don't have to go through the trouble of looking for someone, and everyone accepts that the country will find a compatible partner to make them happy. Yukari Nejima is fifteen years old. He lives in a small corner of the country, and just can't seem to get ahead in life. Both academically and athletically he's below average. But within him, he hides a heart burning with passion! In this world in which love is forbidden, what will happen to him when he falls in love?

I just checked the MAL page, I'll consider it but may not watch it.

Also why do ppl immediately write up these lengthy reviews after just watching only one episode? Seems rather counterproductive when the anime has barely begun.

I was waiting for this thing. But apparently the art seems to be a bit worse than the manga for me.
