Apparently many people don't know about this, but it can be only done once per account.
Post and I'll PM you how.

Ariaa - July 6, 2017, 7:22 pm

Because I'm getting too many PMs: Amazon is giving first time users of the amazon assist browser extension a $5 coupon off a $25 purchase of items sold by amazon. It cannot be combined with other offers in the same order and it's only good once per account. Offer and credit end on 7-15.

Read the full terms: <https://www.amazon.com/gp/BIT/promofaq>

Install page: <https://www.amazon.com/gp/BIT/aapromo?ie=UTF8&bitCampaignCode=a0050>

All you have to do is install the extension, then click on the browser button. It should show the offer and will be added to your account when you click on it. FYI, it did not show up as a credit balance but did come up at checkout.

It MIGHT be good on 3rd party gift cards as the terms only says it excludes buying amazon.
