I'll take a vouch copy op.

Received a vouch copy, I've seen a similar method like this ages ago. It's an okay method, you won't gain much. In the eBook, there's random anime posted pictures. Not sure why but yeah.....

The site used in the eBook, I've never heard about before but it's very similar to another one that I've used prior. You can earn a couple bucks if you put in a lot of effort and market yourself right. The eBook is pretty long which is a plus. It's also pretty well written which is rare in the eBook world. The $100/day is possible but in my opinion very unlikely due to me trying similar methods on another website.

Appreciate the feedback, the posters are basically be branding it as my own instead of it just being any other old ebook. However i really appreciate the feedback thanks OP.

I've received the vouch copy.

The e-book presents all the information that you need for the method. However, it does contain quite a few grammatical and spelling errors, with a poor layout (and random anime graphics), nevertheless as a whole the written aspect isn't too good.

In terms of the actual method, there are a few new things distinguishing this method from other's I've seen in the past. Nevertheless even with that, anywhere close to the 100's of dollars projection in a week in my opinion is a stretch - nevertheless nothing is impossible. I would have to agree with the seller that it can be a method in which you could work very hard at start and then simply forget about only waiting for the benefits to roll in - and hopefully be able to afford to buy yourself something nice every so often.

And i did spend lots of effort on the info graphic, these things are not easy to make, I spent about 4 hours on it alone. I'm not a professional, but I did do my best.

Surely over a week you would have around $105 (assuming you were only making $15 a day)? If you had so much money would it not make sense to get a professional?

Not a sales trash I am not saying no one should buy it or that you aren't trustworthy, I am just genuinely curious because IMO it doesn't really add up for me.. ?
