Thread: [\[Release\] Shad0Bomb SMS Bomber](#)

Zer[o] - July 25, 2010, 6:24 pm

Created this SMS Bomber with a little help from tuts and random searches on google. Silly errors at the end but they were fixed!

Many of these already :|

GUI is quite boring, but thanks for the share anyways :)

Diadora - July 25, 2010, 6:30 pm

Im sure this is an SMTP bomber as SMS is a text message through mobile phone

Zer[o] - July 25, 2010, 6:30 pm

yea its wierd people started releasing theres when i started mine :(

I didn't work on GUI this was just for my learning some more vb.net and decided to share it

You are actually technically correct, it works by continuously sending emails to the victim. Almost all cell phone numbers have a default email that looks like 6665554444@cell_provider.com.

Quote:SMS isn't just for sending text messages from one phone to another — it's also a great way to get email messages on your phone.

Yes, you can get email on your phone! All you need to know is your cell phone's email address.

Most carriers have "SMS gateways" which take email messages from the Internet and deliver them to their customers' cell phones as SMS text messages. The trick is that you need to know what carrier the recipient's phone is on — it's not enough to know their phone number. That's because the carrier determines what the email address of the receiving phone is going to be. For example, Cingular phones' address are all "something@cingularme.com" while Verizon phones are "something@vtext.com."

Sound complicated? It's not. All you really need to do is find your carrier in the list below, and then use the pattern shown there to figure out your email address. If you want to send email to a friend's phone, just ask them which carrier they use, and off you go!

(Note: For the major carriers, I've included a link to a page with more detailed information on how SMS works with that carrier, how much it costs, and where you can find more information. In the list below, just click any carrier's highlighted name to find out more.)

Zer[o] - July 25, 2010, 6:36 pm

ok then its a SMTP bomber. lol

eXosphere™ - July 25, 2010, 6:41 pm

It looks plain and simple, I like it.

Surpintine - July 25, 2010, 6:42 pm

And you should move the provider combobox to the Victim tab, as it is the victim's provider after all.

Yosh?i - July 25, 2010, 6:43 pm

This thread should be in Mobile Smartphones .

wrong. its the email provider

Surpintine - July 25, 2010, 6:52 pm

Oh I see. Not really the appropriate name, but ok.

Zer[o] - July 25, 2010, 6:55 pm

if it is confusing you click the combobox and you will figure out what it is. it took me a while to make but it is still a simple concept :P

PAGMAN - July 25, 2010, 7:18 pm

There are thousands of these already released. But thanks anyway :/

I see. This is multithreaded, right?

Zer[o] - July 27, 2010, 7:28 am bump bump who wants this sms bomber. :D

Zer[o] - March 20, 2011, 11:17 am

tons of downloads but people stopped commenting :(

SESTiE - March 20, 2011, 1:29 pm

Does these work in Europe (More correctly, Sweden)?

Zer[o] - March 20, 2011, 3:45 pm

as long as you use the correct sms gateway it will work anywhere

Mr.thinker - March 21, 2011, 1:40 am

It Will Not Work For All Countries :)

Zer[o] - March 21, 2011, 11:50 am

if you use the correct gateways i think it does?

xfmd1 - March 21, 2011, 12:22 pm

Thank you so much! Been looking forever for one of these.

New user will continue to post :)

Zer[o] - April 14, 2011, 6:30 pm

your welcome xfmd1 enjoy it. almost 300 downloads and still very few comments. bummer

?SNOWMAN? - April 14, 2011, 11:00 pm

Very good bomber, nice and simple

ident - April 14, 2011, 11:06 pm

and random searches on google

Trawling the Net for code samples is not programming.

LuckyLoc - April 15, 2011, 1:45 am

Are there already providers in the list or do we need to add them by our self?

I made too one a while ago, but mine worked on a hole by out local newspaper site.

They had a service to ask for a code and it was simple to fake the asker.

Greetings L.L.

Zer[o] - April 15, 2011, 11:48 am your welcome guys.

@LuckyLoc

you can do either

DigitalFaces - February 20, 2018, 8:45 pm

It looks as though the link does not work
