Halo 3 no doubt, brings back so many memories, glad it's coming back.

Without a doubt A Legend of Zelda: Ocarina of Time. Lost woods song just gets me. Even to this day speedrunning it and hearing that song throws me back to when i was around 4 or 5 just aimlessly wandering around listening to the music. It was also the same year my brother passed and when i finally found my n64 again and walked into lost woods as soon as i heard the music i just burst into tears sat in my chair.

GTA: San Andreas soundtrack will always bring back nostalgia. I used to play that game nonstop when I was younger.

I doubt many people will have even heard of this game, but it was one of my first ever games on the PlayStation 2.

The whole game holds a very special place in my heart.

Other than that, it'd have to be the Medieval 1/2 soundtracks or Gauntlet Legends.
