

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: I've downloaded a virus?

LFCooledWhip - July 10, 2017, 7:44 pm

I was using some random websites to convert youtube videos to MP3. I know it's bad. I did it yesterday and today, and now I was playing CSGO and I was getting choppy stuff a bit. Like I was playing and my frames were kinda chopping. Did I download a virus? When I clicked the download button on the website(it was the right one trust me) another tab opened up and closed real quick. How do I check? I have kaspersky but it has NEVER detected anything.

coldy - July 10, 2017, 7:45 pm

oh boy bro you're fucked .

LFCooledWhip - July 10, 2017, 7:46 pm

Everything seems kinda delayed a bit or it's choppy/laggy kinda. Help!

ps3repair1980 - July 10, 2017, 7:51 pm

(Jul 10, 2017 07:44 PM)LFCooledWhip Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I was using some random websites to convert youtube videos to MP3. I know it's bad. I did it yesterday and today, and now I was playing CSGO and I was getting choppy stuff a bit. Like I was playing and my frames were kinda chopping. Did I download a virus? When I clicked the download button on the website(it was the right one trust me) another tab opened up and closed real quick. How do I check? I have kaspersky but it has NEVER detected anything.What windows are you using ?

Blazin - July 10, 2017, 7:53 pm

Just because you have "kaspersky" does not mean you are 100% safe. There is things called FUD that bypass these antiviruses scantime and runtime. (Trust me) So if you truly think your infected you should format. Don't take a chance with your data and files. Also use malwarebytes ontop of a antivirus. Antivirus protection alone isn't enough.

Reyyzan - July 10, 2017, 7:57 pm

PM me if you need someone to take a look at it.

ps3repair1980 - July 10, 2017, 8:01 pm

(Jul 10, 2017 07:53 PM)Blazin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just because you have "kaspersky" does not mean you are 100% safe. There is things called FUD that bypass these antiviruses scantime and runtime. (Trust me) So if you truly think your infected you should format. Don't take a chance with your data and files. Also use malwarebytes ontop of a antivirus. Antivirus protection alone isn't enough.yes I agree with you. :)

AdmiralHere - July 10, 2017, 8:07 pm

PM me as well if you want someone to evaluate it. I'll let you know.

rsx - July 10, 2017, 8:08 pm

Post a thread here:

Malware, Rat, and Virus Removal

Someone will be there to scan your PC

Striploin - July 10, 2017, 10:19 pm

Run RKill, It should detect any malicious processes.

nbrun - July 10, 2017, 10:22 pm

PM me if you need someone to look at it as well,

Good luck and hope you get it taken care of!

LFCooledWhip - July 11, 2017, 10:32 am

Rkill:

<https://pastebin.com/ixLE9UxR>

Flaws. - July 11, 2017, 10:36 am

everyone is being so over the top about this

You are using the latest version of your browser, correct?

There is a 99% chance you are absolutely fine, that experience you had will not have done anything, unless someone happens to have a absolutely mad top end super secret expensive exploit that costs an arm, liver and a sister, that could also potentially cause a world catastrophe.

LFCooledWhip - July 11, 2017, 10:56 am

It's like I'm also getting choppy frames on CSGO as well. Like I'm playing and sometimes I get a chop or frame chop in game.

<https://youtu.be/vjEyHnba5qk>

Flaws. - July 11, 2017, 11:04 am

(Jul 11, 2017 10:56 AM)LFCooledWhip Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) It's like I'm also getting choppy frames on CSGO as well. Like I'm playing and sometimes I get a chop or frame chop in game.

<https://youtu.be/vjEyHnba5qk>

That CPU usage is because it looks to be avast is scanning

Codger69 - July 11, 2017, 11:15 am

OMG!

Choppy gaming graphics after visiting an MP3 site? That's a sign of the worst kind of attack possible.

You've been pwned big time by a some kind of leet haxxor. Also you may have the AIDS.

Back in the real world, almost certainly nothing has happened. But if you're paranoid feel free to scan it with tools like Hitman Pro and Malwarebytes for a second opinion.