Thread: Reselling Apple Products at a Discount

lil purpp - July 11, 2017, 4:53 pm

I've got a method to buy Apple products at a discount of a few hundred dollars maximum depending on the product. I'm wondering if it's viable to try and sell these laptops for a slight discount.

The products are 100% new but it's not a super insane discount so I'm concerned about traffic.

Mentioning how much you'd sell for would really help us determine how much would sell.

If it's a few hundreds yes. I'd even buy one.

Let me guess. Employee discount? ?

I hear they get... What? 10% plus no TAX?

If an executive it's 20%?

No apple products allowed to be sold here, I am guessing this would fall under that

A Macbook Pro 13" 256GB that is normally $1,500 I would sell at $1,200 if that gives a ballpark.

That sucks, but I was also interested in other platforms. I'm more concerned about eBay selling and possibly getting flagged for the legitimacy of the product.
