Thread: [\[Release\] HF Mobile | Full Functionality | QR Reader | PM Notifications \[Release\]](#)

QoL?? - July 11, 2017, 8:48 pm

It's finally here! I am officially releasing my Hackforums Mobile application. This application has the following features:

- QR Code Reader for the API Key

- Securely Stores and Remembers API Key

- Forum Browsing

- Viewing Threads and Posts

- Private Message Notifications - Activate this through the left navigation drawer and selecting "App Settings". This notification feature persists even when the application is killed or the phone is restarted.

- View Private Messages - Click the notification that is shown when you receive a new PM or use the "Messaging" section in the Navigation Drawer to open the Inbox, Sent Items, Drafts or Trash Can folders to see all PMs.

- View User Profile - Click the "My Profile" item in the Navigation Drawer to view your profile. Viewing other user profiles coming soon.

Screenshots \(Click to View\)

7 Minute Long Video. Watch until the end to see the PM Notifications \(Click to View\)

[Video: <https://vimeo.com/225288434>]

Current version is 1.6! If you do see any other version, wait awhile for the Play Store to update to the latest version.

Please let me know how you like it. Post here with suggestions or feedback.

If you find any bugs, let me know.

Have fun with the app, guys!

Full Functionality (Click to View)

The app does not have full functionality in its current state, but will be added soon.

Spoiler (Click to View)

Thanks to the user Polunum for help with the navigation concept, navigation menu and communication method.

It does not have PM viewing functionality yet. Just the features listed in the OP.

It's coming really soon!

You must be Ub3r or R3kt to use the API at the moment, so the app will not work for you. Omni will be rolling the API out to lower groups eventually.

Yes, I'm aware of the issue. When you rotate your device, it causes the application activities to do a restart and I haven't handled it yet. This will be fixed soon.

This actually looks very good already. As users stated above it does still have some minor bugs and until v2 of the API is out I am not sure if it'll be used a ton but this is definitely going to be big!

Keep up the good work.

Thanks for the kind words!

Most bugs that people have pointed out (Only two or three) have already been fixed and updated in the play store anyway. I've found a few more myself that I've fixed as well. Always on the bug hunt.

I can't wait for V2. Shit's going to get real.

Khamul - July 14, 2017, 11:39 am

I've downloaded it and it's coming along very nicely man. Maybe I'm being pedantic but maybe in a future version you could maybe encrypt the API key and store it rather than plain text? I know it's a bit ridiculous and due to the lack of interest from potential attackers it probably wouldn't matter anyway, but just a quick feature suggestion for ya! Good luck!

If you're encrypting it using MD5 Hash or AES, there's still a chance that someone will decrypt it. Instead of storing it in your code or saved preferences, try encrypting it and storing it in KeyChain.

This is expected at the moment. The app is broken because of an API update. I will be pushing an update sometime today that will fix it and make it much smoother.

The app will exit after scanning the QR code and reopen to the actual app within a second. Can you wait a moment and confirm it's not reopening after scanning the QR code?

Version 1.5 was just pushed to the Play Store. This can take a few hours to show up. You can install it now and you will get a notification that the app has an update available from the Play Store.

This version takes advantage of the improvements and changes to the API yesterday.

I also made PM Notifications more stable across the app being killed and the device being restarted. This should work 99% of the time.

You can now click a PM notification and the message will be opened and displayed in the app. I will include screenshots hopefully tomorrow.

The reason for that is probably because the image is old and uses http instead if https. Omniscient broke all http links for better security.

If it is an image link that uses https and the mybb tag is properly formatted, link me to the thread do I can check it out.

That has already been explained. The navigation drawer buttons do not work because the functions do not yet exist in the API, so I can't do anything about it yet. They will be enabled and functional shortly after the API is updated further.

I will look into the Group and Crew General Discussion section, that does look like a bug and I can reproduce it. Thanks! ?

Read some posts on the thread.

Profile images do work, just not ones that are hosted on HF. For instance, my profile image loads fine as well as a lot of others. This is a CloudFlare issue because scripts and code cannot get to the images easily. The next API updates are hopefully going to fix this.

The navigation drawer buttons do not all work yet. You are correct, they are limitations of the API.

Edit: Version 1.6 of the app has been pushed. Added a few features and bug fixes, check the OP for features.

But, who knows, eventually someone will take it up, I've postponed it after the 1st day, its really uncomfortable testing code that way.

I do have physical iOS devices, so I'm not worried about that.

iOS will be coming eventually.

Well now that the API is available for UB3R. I can go ahead and do it since I run a mobile app development team.

Gonna make it a user-friendly hybrid app, probably running ionic framework.

Whatcha think about it?

It's not bad honestly, better than Cordova in terms of animations and being able to spot the quality difference but from my experience mostly being focused with Cordova, and Native development I'm not the quickest with React.

The biggest things I noticed with hybrid apps is feeling sluggish, now with Ionic v2, and v3 this is improved greatly but React is a better native/hybrid approach. For example, when we were developing with Ionic v1 looking back at our client's apps you can clearly tell they're hybrids, animations aren't very fluid, images load weird and randomly, etc. The common problems of mobile websites basically.

React is cool also because you can blend it with an existing native app which makes it great for companies like Instagram which is actually built with React Native.

Not sure if that answers your question, I've got a Raspberry Pi in one hand and my laptop in the other lol working on a prototype.

Okay, I have never understood why people use these frameworks rather than just developing the native applications. Can you explain that?

(Jul 30, 2017 08:07 PM)QoL?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Okay, I have never understood why people use these frameworks rather than just developing the native applications. Can you explain that?

One of the biggest reasons is time. Most startups including mine don't have a lot of time. We need to get to market not spend extra amounts of time building a native application. Small businesses and startups are focused on getting to market and selling not developing. Also having one codebase is extremely helpful since it allows you to rapidly develop, and rapidly improve. Another reason is it keeps cost low since time is decreased. Honestly, I wouldn't recommend native unless your application requires it, most hybrid frameworks can do everything native apps can.

Then again that's my two cents. ?

Not "waiting" exactly. Just not starting on iOS until the Android is finished and that requires V2. I'd prefer to have it all done and then starting on the iOS rather than having two half functional apps.

The app is based off of HF's API. To use the API you must have a key for said API. For right now API Keys are only available to L33T and above status members. Therefore you are not able to use your user/pass to login. There was another app released a few months back which didn't utilize HF's API and used user/pass instead.

In the future you can find your API Key here: <https://hackforums.net/apikkey.php>

The API hasn't received much attention since it's been at a stand still publicly for awhile. So, not many people are touching it. I'd like to revamp the app once V2 rolls out and if/when some accessibility stuff gets sorted out.

Yeah, development has been stopped. I haven't had the patience to deal with the API recently. If you keep up with this subforum, you'll know that the HF API hasn't been updated in a long time and it has a lot of quirks and restrictions.

I'm hoping with the V2 release, these will be taken care of and I can continue.

By no means should what I say stop you from working with the API. You can still makes calls, build whatever you like. It can just get annoying working around CloudFlare, user-agents, etc.

Keep up with the subforum for updates on V2.

Dev has halted on this. The HF API does not allow you to submit posts, threads, messages, etc. There hasn't been any update to it in a long time, so I haven't done anything with this.

Hopefully, when the API does get updated, I'll be able to continue.

It's Raghav Sood - Raghavsood999@gmail.com. I bought your life time subscription. I still have your serial key you provided me. I updated my pc to Windows 10 Pro x64 2004 and it has totally refreshed my system. So can you activate my crypter please?

I didn't format my computer. also I reset my router mistakenly so when I input serial key, I get ip address has changed message and invalid serial key message.

The serial key has not been changed and its the same one you have given me.

I used my friends HF account to write THIS MESSAGE: CARL FUXON'S he lend me his hack forum account for 1 day because my one was shut down myself. I deactivated it.

Can you understand that windows 10 2004 update is refresh everything and creates windows.old directory in c drive meaning it reinstalls windows but DOES NOT FORMAT HARD DISK so basically HWID changes but my serial key is the same.
