Smoke Bot - a modular boat (there are two versions - resident and nonresident). Non-resident version - after downloading the bot executes all assignments and deletes itself, ie not installed in the system advantages:

- availability of modules, plug-ins that extend the functionality of the bot, and the bot does not affect the size (do not need encryption)
- detailed statistics on the OS version (capacity, privileges) countries and online
- detailed statistics on the instructions, load / start-ups, the number of restrictions, etc.
- Reference for a bot to download an EXE or DLL (LoadLibrary, regsvr32, run out of memory without saving to disk)
- geo-targeting (sample download only for specific countries or block certain countries)
- personal assignments for each robot, the ability to ban or delete bot
- the HTTPS support, support .BIT domains, downloading files from the admin tasks or the URL of another
- an unobtrusive installation in the system, the protection of its own files and registry entries
- the ability to update the bot and reserve addresses for otstuk
- the use of prefixes (ID) etc. I have the exe (more accurate statistics and division of tasks)
- exclusion of restarting the machine already running a bot (under the single license)
- "guest" access to jobs statistics
- bypassing proactive mechanisms AB (injection into a trusted process)
- privilege escalation Low -> High (the runas + cmd)

- Anti debugging, anti-emulation, the detection of a "sandbox" and virtual machines
- easy to encryption (does not contain any additional DLL, overlays, TLS, only one code section)
- work in Windows XP-10 x32 / x64 (some modules only work with 32-bit applications on a oih bit the Windows)
- the small size of the bot ~ 10-12 kb
- * - only for the resident version
- depending on the version of the

Thanks mate, been looking for a good botnet!

This will prevent scams for sure, thanks for posting this.

Still I wouldn't recommend anyone to buy SmokeLoader. It is a detected crap bot and the modules aren't working for shit (and yes, I do own it). It is not worth even a quarter of the money he asks.

And the fact that the coder is a very greedy asshole (he literally treats customers like shit and barely speaks any English) does not count as something positive either.

i also offer a setup service at cheap price. i also have a test too if you want to test it and confirm what i say its true.
