Thread: So tired but not tired at all

The OG FurFag ? - July 14, 2017, 12:12 am

I am so tired and want to sleep, but at the same time, I am not tired at all. I am able to type quick and fluent, and am carrying on a conversation with some buddies.

Help me out here HF, someone knock me out or something.

Yeah that happens.

Your brain becomes more active after becoming fatigued.

I get this. I can barely stay awake at work, but when I get home, I still got the tiredness from work but I'm wide awake and can game, chat, browse etc.. as if it's lunchtime.

So confusing. It's cool I guess. If I go to sleep now I can be zzzzz in seconds, but if I want I can also stay awake all day. Works well I guess.

There will be a lot pf people will say things about drug and favor.

But i think, that's it really in your favor that you have time to put in more efforts for your life, i mean there is no point in sleep, people try to reach this level of state in which they can devote themselves to their work and where the only thing that stops them is their sleep.

In this case if you are irritated with you not sleeping problem, i would recommend you to get to a peaceful place and just lie down straight and focus on breathing or just meditating.

Because Meditation is the most beneficial in this state, your mind is aware about the surrounding at this time the most.

And if you are surprised that every time you do something interesting or social, i would just say that your mind is aware.

The first sentence in your signature is love and life.
